[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—Atty..

Gen. Ford in a letter to J. W. Bartlet of Weaverville has rendered an opinion regarding the recording of mining claims. After reviewing the laws bearing on the subject, he says:

"I conclude that a notice of a mining claim is entitled to be recorded in the county in which the claim is situated; that it is the duty of the County Recorder to keep books for that purpose, and to record the same upon the payment of the fees, in the same manner as is required in recording other instruments."

Gen. Brooke expressed sympathy with Gen. Gomez, and said he regretted the position he had taken, but, the American commander added, if his decision was unchangeable, he would proceed to deal with the question alone.

It was mutually agreed that Gen. Gomez will issue tomorrow a manifesto to the Cuban army. This document will be prepared this afternoon, and will be submitted to Gen. well informed about the Cubans. There is an impression that the intention of Gen. Brooke to see that the $3,000,000 are distributed among all the Cuban troops has caused disappointment among the many "generals" and other high officers, who were evidently expecting a large share of the money. The belief was expressed that the situation in Cuba is serious, and that careful and diplomatic management will be needed.

The advices from Puerto Principe also record the appearance of several bands of armed men on the estates near the boundary between the provinces of Puerto Principe and Santiago de Cuba. A detachment of 200 cavalrymen from a force of rural police, with packs and provisions for twenty-five days, have been in pursuit of the bands.

The Independent claims that a large majority of the intelligent Cubans are opposed to the personnel of the Supreme Court, saying that some of the members are so deficient in qualifications that they would have better chances of success in attempting a trip to the moon than in attempting to sit on the Supreme bench. The paper also says the Cubans are so unused to expressing themselves in public that the ignorant undercurrent of feeling of 80 per cent. of the population is not realized by the appointing officials.

For itself, the Independent says it has no protest to make against anything done, no matter how objectionable, as this is much the easiest way to get along.

Alger, and Gen. Henry directed the commanding officers of the ports of San Juan, Ponce, Mayaguez, Arecibo, Aguadilla, Cayey, Humacao, Adjuntas, Yauco, Coamo, San German, Bayamon, Manila, Lares and Albonito to designate an officer to enlist, equip and instruct twenty-five men, including one sergeant and two corporals.

Gen. Henry recommended the enlistment of Porto Rieans because there was little work and a great deal of restlessness on the island. Reports ahow that there is no lack of volunteers, and that more than half of the battalion has been enlisted, though some of the towns have not yet furnished their quota of men. In view of the withdrawal of the Nineteenth Infantry from Porto Rico, and the fact that there remains only the Fifth Cavalry, Eleventh Infantry, and three batteries of the Fifth Artillery, the equipment of the 400 Porto Ricans as American soldiers will be a welcome addition to the American force, and will enable the commanding general to preserve peace and order in the island.

Admiral Kautz appends the reports of the surviving officers of the expedition, which were transmitted by Capt. White of the Philadelphia. In his let-White of the Philadelphia. In his letter of transmissal, the captain commends in the strongest terms the work of Passed Assistant Surgeon 'G. A. Lund. He says: "At the time when the fire from the concealed natives was thickest, and at all times, by his example, he encouraged the young and inexperienced men to the proper performance of duty. At the completion of the work of his profession he assumed command of our blue jackets and marched them to the United States consulate."

marched them to the United States consulate."
Capt. White described at some length the happenings of April 1, as gathered from a close examination of the petty officers and men engaged in the fight. He says that several excursions had been made into the beach back of Apia during the last ten days of March. Very few natives had been observed, and when seen they always fied when fired upon by the Colt automatic gun. Lieut. Lansdale set great store by the gun, and frequently operated it himself. Says Capt. Whites. "He appeared to depend greatly on

"He appeared to depend greatly on the gun when the party was ambushed on April 1. Twice it did not perform its function, and time was lost in overhauling it, and great delay was consumed in trying to set it through the wire fence. Lieut. Lansdale was loth to abandon it, but the fire was so galling that before he was wounded he was compelled to scatter the important parts and leave it behind. Prudence led him to deploy his men in open order. The thicket was so dense that after the order for retreat was sounded, it was not possible for the groups to render each other mutual support.

the knee soon after the Colt was abandoned, and was rendered incapable of doned, and was rendered incapable of marching. He was assisted by his men. One of them, N. E. Edsall (ordinary seaman.) was mortally wounded while doing so. It is not clear when Lansdale received the wound in his chest. It is in evidence most clear that when Ensign Monaghan discovered that Lieut. Lansdale was wounded, he used his best endeavors to convey him to the rear, and, seizing a rifle from a disabled man, made a brave defense, but undoubtedly he fell very shortly after joining him, and the hostiles, flushed with success, bore down on our men in the vicinity.

He stood steadfast by his wounded superior and friend, one rifle against many—one brave man against a score of savages. He knew he was doomed. He could not yield. The British story is briefly told by Lieut. G. E. Cave. in an inclosed renort made to Capt. Stuart of H.M.S. It is asserted that tariffs for export trade are lower than those on domestic shipments, and that domestic grain has been carried at the low export rates on the representation that it was destined to a foreign port. The commission is to hold sessions in all the principal cities of the East and West. It is proposed to secure evidence showing all the important changes that have taken place in rates to the Atlantic seaboard on shipments of grain and grain products, and the reason therefor.

mained benind at the fence to the isal and was with Lansdale and Monaghan when they were killed, is especially mentioned.

The last report of the series is made by Passed Assistant Surgeon Lund, who was with the expedition and who details closely every movement. He says that the greatest caution was used to prevent a surprise while passing through the ravine and along the crossroads where the affair occurred. Both sides of the road were lined with a heavy barbed-wire fence, which could not be broken down. The situation was a most unfavorable one for the expedition, as the hostiles were posted on the crest of the bluff, so well intrenched that they could not be seen, and their presence was only made known by their firing.

The Americans and British at the first fire advanced along the road a little, then dropped in the ditch at the roadside and returned several volleys. The Colt gun failed again, and this fact, says Surgeon Lund, probably helped to bring on the disaster that followed. The hostiles were closing around the eastern end of the line, but they could not be charged because of the barbed-wire fence, so a retreat was ordered, which encouraged the enemy to increase their fire. No mention is made at any point of the reported participation in the affray of the German, Hufnagel, the manager of the plantation where the fight occurred. It is shown that the fallure of the Colt gun to work properly was in a large measure the cause of the American and British defeat.

Admiral Kautz says the expedition was projected by Capt. Sturdee of the Porpoise. For several nights preceding the sentries had been fired upon by the natives and it became necessary to drive them away. "AUTHORITY OR NOTHING." New York Divine's Tart Sermon on Briggs's Ordination.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 15 .- In the Church of St. John the Evangelist last night, Rev. D. Benjamin F. DeCosta spoke on "The Guidance of the Holy Spirit," in its bearings upon the principles of the "High Criticism," as expounded by Dr.

"High Criticism," as expounded by Dr. Briggs from the words, "The spirit of truth will guide you into all truth."
"The church," he said, "is not to stand still, but, age upon age, rise to higher and fuller conceptions of the mind of Christ. Yet there is danger here for individuals who by an ab of the thought come to be heady and conceited and confound their own notions, whims and eccentricities with the voice of the spirit. Nothing is more evident from the New Testament than that persons who claim to be led by the spirit are called to submit their claims to the church for explanation and criticism. It is unfortunate that the candidate himself be persuaded of his call; the church must be convinced. "Yet, with all the precautions, bishops often lay hands suddenly on the wrong persons, men who have no interior call, who deliberately perfure of the thought come to be heady and ops often lay hands suddenly on the wrong persons, men who have no interior call, who deliberately parfure themselves seeking the office of priest for personal advantage for emoirment, social position and vantage ground for teaching. The church abounds with these men, who have never been called by the Holy Ghost, and many bishops have yet to answer before God for their action in laying on hands suddenly, in the case of men seeking the ministry with a lie upon their lips. Manifestly the greatest danger exists in this direction, and the spectacle of a bishop deliberately ordaining men who deny plain statements of the baptismal office naturally fills the church with deep concern. What must be the end of all this unbridled 'individualism?' In connection with scripture, it means the taking away of all real authority from the word of God.

"Men demand authority in chemistry and astronomy, and why not in theology? The world craves authority, and if men cannot find it in the Episcopal church it still exists close at hand. We have always depended upon an infallible Bible. The last papal encessity of the church basing itself upon the infallible word. This thought is not exclusively a Protestant thought, yet Protestantism needs it more than the Roman church, and inasmuch as the Protestant ecclesiastical system is weaker than the Roman, so much the more does it need the supporting prower of an infallible word.

weaker than the Roman, so much the more does it need the supporting power of an infallible word. "Bishops now in our church are practically telling us that there is no infallible Bible, and as we have now come to the conclusion that they then come to the conclusion that they themselves are not infallible, it is clear that we shall soon be obliged to look around for foundations if we are going to have any. Men cannot recognize any Holy Ghost speaking through any conceited individual. They want that interpretation of Holy Writ that has been accepted by all holy men in all ages and everywhere, and if this does not satisfy them nothing will. Protestants had better realize before they go any further that the issue is authority or nothing."

SHOVELERS SENSITIVE AS TO COM-PANY THEY KEEP

"Monthly Men" are also Out of Em ployment—Elevators Completely Tied Up—Police and the Bishop Doing the Best They Can.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT. BUFFALO, May 15 .- The dock situation is worse tonight than at any time since the opening of the season. The "monthly men," the men who work inside of the elevators, are out, and have agreed to remain out until the grain-shovelers' and the freight-handlers' strikes are settled. Tomorrow every elevator here will be idle, unless new men can be secured to take the places of the "monthly men," which is said to be improbable.

Bishop Quigley and the leaders of the grain-shovelers held a conference today, which lasted until 9 o'clock tonight. The grain-shovelers claimed that Connors had violated all the esmade with the union. The freight-handlers, "monthly men" and hoisting engineers have agreed to stand by the grain-shovelers, and the coal-passers and the ore-handlers will make the agreement tomorrow

The additions to the strikers today, beside the "monthly men," were the local branch of the International Union of Engineers, many of whom are em-ployed on the hoisting engines along the docks. They adopted a resolution to assist the grain-shoveler ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] BUFFALO (N. Y.,) May 15 .- The grain shovelers, whose troubles were believed to have been satisfactorily settled, have refused to go to work in the elevators with the men who have been working and whom the contractors refuse to discharge. The shovelers claim that they are required to get cards from Contractor Conners before they would be permitted to work, and that in addition to the object-conable shovelers at work, some of the boss scoopers objected to, were working notwithstanding the agreement that they were not to be suspended pending investigation of charges against them. The shovelers marched to their headquarters with their scoops on their shoulders.

"The monthly men" at the various elevators have struck, which completely ties up the elevators.

About 300 men assembled near the city elevator, where they found between thirty and forty men working. They became very angry, and the police, scenting trouble, refused to allow them on the dock. they would be permitted to work, and lice, scenting trouble, refused to allow them on the dock.

After a short discussion, Superintendent Cutting decided to suspend operations, and the men were taken from the elevators. The bishop is doing all in his power to arrange matters. President McMahon advised the men to keep quiet, remain where they were, and await developments.

The freight-handlers, coal-heavers and ore-workers are still out. Business is at a standstill at the coal and ore docks, but the railroads have men at work on their docks handling freight. Thirty-five levee negroes from Cincinnati were put to work from central docks today. The "monthly" men from the elevators held a meeting and determined to order out all the men who manipulate the elevator machinery, including the steam shovels. The situation has not been so serious before.

QUEEN REACHES LONDON.

Contributes to Terrier "Tim's" Col-[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] LONDON, May 15 .- [By Atlantic Cable.] Queen Victoria arrived in London today from Windsor, accompaied by the Duke and Duchess of York and her suite, and drove to Kensington Palace, the party occupying a number of open four-horse landeaux and escorted by a detachment of the horse guards. Thousands of enthusiastic people gathered on the route to the palace, where Her Majesty visited the old apartments which she occupied as a young girl, which have been renovated, preparatory to opening the palace to the public.

On the arrival of Her Majesty at Paddington Railroad station, she noticed on the platform a shaggy Irish terrier named "Tim" which collects contributions for the widows and orphans fund of the railroad. The Queen had "Tim" brought to her and, after patting the dog on the head, she dropped a piece of gold into the boxhanging about the dog's neck.

Mr Giertz ordered him to leave the child alone, and Hausser drew a revolver and threatened to shoot him. There was a wordy war for a few minutes, and then Hausser went into his house.

As Flicker and his wife and friend Pflume were starting for their home, Hausser reappeared and without a word opened fire. Two of his shots struck Flicker, one in the hip and another in the arm. A third bullet lodged in Pflume's abdomen and inflicted a wound that will prove fatal. Policeman Richard King was attracted by the shooting, but when he reached the scene Hausser had retreated to his barn, and with his revolver freshly charged, stood prepared to resist capture. A large crowd also gathered around the barn, and threats against Hausser were freely made. Finally, the policeman, tired of parleying, opened the door, and before Hausser had a chance to use his pistol, it was wrenched from his hand.

PRINCETON (N.J.,) May 15.-Prince West employés indulged in a pitched battle today, and serious rioting was prevented only by the presence of mei with cool heads, and the action of Presi dent Patton of Princeton University later in the day, in calling a mass meeting call the students.

late this afternoon, when President Patton called a mass meeting of all the undergraduates and the faculty, and the result of the meeting indicates that the show will leave town unmolested; but it will have lost money, for word has been passed through the town that no one is to enter the tent, and the townspeople, who are in sympathy with the students, are a unit in refusing to attend.

Things were proceeding in the usual course in the university when the parade started. The procession reached the college campus without trouble, but passed down Nassau street at a bad moment, for just as the band's musio was heard the students were in the act of passing from the first morning lectures to the second. The townspeople were out in force, and waiting for the parade, and the great majority of them were massed near the campus. Word issued all along the line, and within a few minutes six or seven hundred students had assembled on Nassau street. Cannon crackers left over from previous occasions, eggs purchased at nearby stores and vegetables bought or confiscated from the stores were assembled quickly. The men unable to

At the mass-meeting of students this afternoon attended by the whole undergraduates' body. President Patton spoke in condemnation of the attack on the barade, and positively forbade any student to go to the show grounds tonight. The peace conference will hold its first sitting at 2 o'clock Thursday after-first sitting at 2 o'clock Thursday atternoon next.

It is understood the Americans and British are meeting with some success in their efforts to get the question of international arbitration, which is now the eighth article of the programme, advanced to the first place.

Acting on an order, from the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Rampolla, the papal Internuncio, left The Hague today as a protest against the omission of the government of the Netherlands, acting on behalf of Russia, to invite the Vatican to send a representative. of the government to throw cold water upon a matter of such grea public interest, nor was there any idea of seeming ungraciousness. He expressed surprise at the fact that exception had been taken to the government's assertion that the cable was more important to Canada and Australia than to the United Kingdom, explaining that while such a project as this might be of great imperial interest, it might at the same time be of greaters importance to specific portions of the empire.

Continuing, the under secretary said he did not think any one conversant with the financial aspect of the matter would regard the government's offer as being ungenerous. It offered, he said, to share the burden without demanding a share of the orofits. The sum of $20,000 per annum was named because it seemed to be the outside limit on the proportion of five-eight-eenths which Great Britain could be called upon to pay.

The conditions, proposed, he explained, were merely such as the experience of the postoffice and treasury suggested as being the most likely to secure efficiency. If the colonies had any objections to urge against the form of the British proposals, the government was perfectly prepared to review the whole matter with a sincere desire to arrive at a decision which would be satisfactory to all concerned. ere desire to arrive at a decision thich would be satisfactory to all

The British second-class gunboat Swift and three other gunboats are proceeding to sea under sealed orders. These warships have 500 men on board. The territory back of the Hinterland is also disturbed, and Chinese troops have been sent there.

LATER.—There are 1350 infantry soldiers, 100 artillerymen, 50 engineers and 500 marines gone to the Kow-Loon Hinterland. The greatest secrecy is observed as to the plans of the British authorities, and nothing is definitely known regarding the destiny of the troops, but it seems evident that the two detachments will advance on Tai-Po-Fu and Deep Bay, cut off the rebels and drive them from the ceded territory. The gun vessels engaged in the operations have been provisioned for eight days.

Troops are patrolling the European quarter of Kow-Loon, It is reported that Chinese rebels from Tung Kung invaded British tarritory last evening, and that two armed gangs robbed the city of Kow-Loon. Hongkong itself is quiet.

neadquarters. The uniform rains win not parade, and there will be no encampment here with the Grand Lodge. This evening a reception was given to the delegates at the Armory.

Mayor Lamb tendered the delegates the freedom of the city. Past Grand Chancellor C. E. Lindsay extended a welcome in behalf of Avalon Lodge. Mrs. E. S. Pringle made an address of welcome for Hermion Temple. Grand Chancellor Patton responded for the Grand Lodge, and Mrs. Fitzgerald for the Grand Temple, after which the Grand Lodge began its annual session. Reports were received, a Committee on Credentials appointed, and the Grand Lodge degree conferred on 200 delegates. Tomorrow morning a bullshead barbecue will be given at the beach.

There promises to be a lively fight over the question of having the Grand Lodge permanently held in San Francisco. Another contest is to be over mileage. At present delegates receive 10 cents a mile. Many want delegates limited only to actual expenses. An important subject for discussion is the Pythian fund. Some want a Pythian home built in San Francisco wille others favor making the present fund a nucleus for a building fund, to be added to from year to year until sufficient funds are acquired.

Although it is customary for the Vice-Chancellor to be elected to the Grand Chancellorship, there are indications of opposition to the present Vice-Chancellor, Arndt of San Diego. Grand Reeper of Record and Seals Schaffner, who has held the position for nine years, will have two opponents. There will be a spirited contest for Supreme Representative between George Church of Fresno and Stanton L. Carter of Stockton.

MURDOCK CASE ARGUED.

MURDOCK CASE ARGUED. Attorney Lusk Calls the Story of the Note Preposterous.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] WILLOWS, May 15 .- In the Murdock case this morning Attorney Lusk continued his argument for the defense. He argued that the note was never mentioned by Samuel Murdock, according to the testimony of Gawn W. Murdock, and characterized the story of the note as preposterous and that such a magnificent gift as $100,000 had never been alluded to in twelve years as extremely unreasonable. He said there was no use taking such a note to Ohlo to get money on it, as any bank in the Sacramento Valley would have loaned any amount on it if it was a genuine document. He said the plaintiff was afraid to put Megginson, who figures so prominently in the note transaction, on the stand, because he Murdock, and characterized the story

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SANTA MARIA, May 15.—The Coroner's jury has returned to Santa Maria and substantiates the report that Hamilton murdered his wife and then committed suicide. A bloody trail is evidence that desperate resistance was made by the wife, but she was evidently overpowered by brute force Their daughter found her mother dead and her father gasping his last breath There had been considerable trouble between the husband and wife, caused by jealousy and cruelty on his part, it is charged. He had been drinking heavily of late.

Hamilton formerly lived in Oakland and Bakersfield. He left a boy, aged 13. in Bakersfield, and another boy who is a valuable witness, told of the cruel treatment of his mother by his father. His evidence showed that it was a case of deliberate murder. The day before the crime the boy noticed the peculiar actions of his father when sharpening a knife and questioned him The father threatened to punish the boy if he spoke about it. The mother once said to her daughter: "I fear my life will end some time through the act of that cruel man."

About 9 o'clock Sunday evening, Mrs. Elliott knocked at the Hunter home, and was answered by Mrs. Hunter, to whom she said: "It is not you I want to see; it is Mr. Hunter." Mrs. Hunter then called her husband, and he got up and dressed and came to the door, and immediately on his opening the door and without saying a word, Mrs. Elliott fired on him with a shotgun, the charge striking Hunter in the abdomen and ranging upward, death resulting almost instantly.

After the shooting of her husband, Mrs. Hunter grappled with Mrs. Elliott, and attempted to take the gun from her, but was unsuccessful. Mrs. Elliott then left the house. Hunter's son and his mother roused the neighborbood, and people found Mrs. Elliott dead in a field a short distance from the Hunter home. She evidently had taken poison.

Promissory Notes Sustained.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS MIGHT REPORT.]
SAN JOSE, May 15.—Judge Lorigan today sustained defendant's plea of abatement in the suit of Capt. W. A. Nevills vs. Charles M. and Samuel M. Shortridge, to forclose mortgages on San Francisco, Arizona and San José property, to recover $23,000. balance alleged to be due on two promissory notes of $40,000 and $20,000 respectively.

The plea was submitted by agree-ment, the grounds being that when the last deeds and mortgages were exccuted, the defendants were given a year's time in which to meet their obligations, and that, therefore, the suit was prematurely instituted. This view was upheld by the court, and defendants attorneys' were instructed to prepare findings.

against the camp. Zoeckler's death, nore than a year ago, was attended with circumstances that pointed toward fulcide, and an intimation to that effect was contained in the report of the Coroner's jury, though a second verdict did not definitely state there had been self-destruction. The family have insisted that death must have come either from accident or murder. The hullet had been fired from Zoeckler's own revolver, which was found on the floor of his bedroom, only a few feet from the dead's man hand.

Police officers and prosecuting attorneys are usually believed proof against every wile of the bunco man. Not so in Arizona, as is now well known to Thomas D. Flannigan, District Attorney of Maricona county. There were three men involved in the burglary last December of the banking office of P. G. Hickey of Phoenix. Two of the men, who gave their names as Robert Evans and Robert Smith, were apprehended. Evans did not deny he was in the bank the fateful Christmas evening, but affirmed that his motives were pure. He agreed to turn State's evidence, whose conviction the District Attorney had doubts. So, when called in the District Court, the case against Evans was dismissed. Then Evans was placed on the stand as the main witness of the Territory against Smith. Evans told how he happened into the bank accidentally, and had seen several men at work on Hickey's desk. He started to argue with them on the injuity of their proceedings. The discussion was cut short by the appearance of Hickey himself, and the flight of the debaters. Up to this point Evans was annoted withess. Then, with a cool effrontery that temporarily deprived the District Attorney of breath and reason, he told that Smith had not been a member of the burglarious crew—Smith wasn't that kind of a man. He told a few more fairly tales about the salnity purity of Smith's character and was then excused. The District Attorney could evilve no questions, and the defense knew when it had a good thing to let alone. But the jury found Smith guilty, just the sam

He has been in the thick of the fighting ever since he landed in the Philippines. At the time of writing a letter just received in Phoenix, he was in Manilà, suffering from a bullet wound. He writes: "I was too anxious to get a shot at one of the niggers and leaned too far out of the trench. The consequence was disastrous, for I got a bullet through the point of the left shoulder. I thought I had been struck with a club." The insurgents he considers "devils without fear," and he believes it will be some time before they are brought under control. "The situation here is more serious than is believed in the States, for the rebels fire with a determination and persistence that cannot but be admired. They harass our troops on all sides, and a man never knows what minute he may be bowled over. Constant danger, however, makes a man indifferent. There is an excitement that thrills a fellow so that the hardship is lost sight of. My Cuban experience has taught me considerable, which stands me in good stead."

When the last Legislature withdrew from the National Guard every cent of support,, nothing was expected save the immediate disbandment of every company of the Guard in the Territory. This result has not followed. The guardsmen have generally appreciated that the Legislature but illy represented the people, and have made arrangements for continuance at the expense of the members. The only organization of the guard to drop will be the regimental band at Tucson and Co. A of Phoenix. Co. B, the senior company, is expected to absorb the greater number of the men mustered out of Co. A, and has been even strengthened through the adverse legislation. The city has offered the company free accommodations in the legislative chambers. Reorganization of the company is expected at once. It is hoped the command will be accepted by Capt. J. L. B. Alexander, late of Troop C. First United States Volunteer Cavalry. Capt. Alexander is a man of the strongest character and most intense activity, and under him is hoped to be developed the crack military organization of the Southwest.

The DeMund Phoenix baseball team has started on its westward career. There was a report that it had been snowed under at Ash Fork, but the telegrams that told of defeat with a score of 9 to 0 proved to be fakes. Two games were won at Needles, whence the team continued on to San Diego, where games were to be played Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Then Los Angeles will be tackled. No games are known to have been scheduled for the Angel City. There has been considerable correspondence on the subject, but the Los Angeles managers apparently were possessed of the idea that no decent baseball team could come from Arizona, and therefore insisted on being allotted the greater part of the gate receipts. But a stop will be made in Los Angeles just the same, and the Phoenix talent will endeavor to put up the game of their lives. The travelers embrace the following-named: Manager, A. De-Mund; captain, William Mosser; Oscar Jones, Byron Hartwell, William Worth, James Fielder, Frank Reese, Hirum Brawley, Edward Avery, Fred Collins and J. Armstrong.

A change in the management or ownership of the Evening Herald is imminent. There have been reports of the purchase of the paper by Dudley Helm of Wickenburg, and others, but no trade has thus far been made. The paper is one of the most valuable newspaper properties in the Southwest It is the oldest paper in Central Arizona, started by Charles E. McClintock in January, 1878. As a daily it dates from September, 1879. N. A. Morford, the present owner, has been in possession since 1882. The Herald has the exclusive afternoon Associated Press franchise, a large subscription list, a Mergenthaler linotype and a job office annex. The journal has always been of the staunchest Republicanism.

Up to this point Evans was a model withess. Then, with a cool effrontery that temporarily deprived the District Attorney of breath and reason, he told that Smith had not been a member of the burglarious crew—Smith wasn't that kind of a man. He told a few more fairly tales about the saintly purity of Smith's character and was then excused. The District Attorney could evolve in questions, and the defense knew when it had a good thing to let alone. But the jury found Smith guilty, just the same, though in the keond degree of burglary. Evans has departed hence.

VALLANDIGHAM'S SUCCESSORS How Abraham Lincoln Dealt Wit Sedition Thirty-six Years Ago.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean:] There is today much loose talk about freedom of speech and freedom of the press. I comes uniformly from men of un bridied tongues and evil influences. I is the plea of the anarchist, the outlaw and the traitor, and the excuse and shelter of thousands who indulge in incendiary speech and in the same breatt cendiary speech and in the same breat protest against being regarded as out laws or traitors. As with one voice, a men of these classes are arguing jus now that free speech means lawless speech, yet they know full well that there is no such thing as free speech except within the limits of constitutional and statute laws; that there is no itional and statute laws; that there is no freedom of the press except within the limits of the law of libel. No man, no newspaper is at liberty to destroy character or undermine the government in violation of the laws protecting all citizens, or of the constitutional provisions and statutes defining treason.

Thirty-six years ago yesterday Clement L. Vallandigham, a prominent politician of Ohio, was arrested upon the charge of "publicly expressing sympathy for those in arms against the government of the United States, and declaring disloyal sentiments and opinions with the object and purpose of weakening the powers of the government in its efforts to suppress an unlawful rebellion." He was found guilty and sentenced to close confinement in a fortress during the continuance of the lawful rebellion." He was found guilty and sentenced to close confinement in a fortress during the continuance of the war. President Lincoln modified the sentence by directing that Mr. Vallandigham be sent south into the enemy's lines, with an order that in case of his return he should serve out the sentence.

A few residents of Ohio sent a formal remonstrance to President Lincoln In or ms return he should serve out the sentence.

A few residents of Ohio sent a formal remonstrance to President Lincoln. In reply, the President said: "Mr. Vallandigham's views are hostile to the war on the part of the Union, and his arrest was made because he was laboring with some effect to prevent the raising of troops, to encourage desertions from the army, and to leave the rebellion without any adequate military force to suppress it."

No man disputes today the flagrancy of Vallandigham's treason or the justice of his punishment. Let the reader then apply the charge against him and Mr. Lincoln's explanation of it to the men who addressed the Central Music Hall meeting last Sunday, and draw the inevitable inference of their guilt. Vallandigham did not go so far as Edward Atkinson and others of the Anti-Imperialistic League of Boston, and their imitators in Chicago. He even denied that it was his purpose to prevent the raising of troops or to encourage desertion from the army, but Mr. Atkinson and his followers, in whose interest the Central Music Hall meeting was held, openly declare their purpose to prevent the suppression of the rebellion in the Philippines. They arow and boast of sentiments and opinions "declared with the object and purpose of weakening the powers of the government in its efforts to suppress an unlawful rebellion." They go further than Vallandigham, after his banishment heyond the Union lines ran the

NO WOMAN IS EXEMPT.

Regularity is a matter of importance in every woman's life. Much pain is, however, endured in the belief that it is necessary and not alarming, when in truth it is all wrong and indicates derangement that may cause serious trouble.

Excessive monthly pain itself will old before their time.

The foundation of woman's health is a perfectly normal and regular per-formance of nature's function. The statement we print from Miss Ger-TRUDE SIKES, of Eldred, Pa., is echoed in every city, town and hamlet in this ountry. Read what she says:
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel like a new person since following your advice, and think it is my duty to let the public know the good your remedies have done me. My troubles were painful menstruation and leucorrhora ful menstruation and leucorrhœa. I was nervous and had spells of being confused. Before using your remedies I never had any faith in patent medicines. I now wish to say that I never had anything do me so much good for painful menstruation as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; also would say that your Sanative Wash has cured me of leucorrhœa. I hope these few words may help suffering women."

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparaleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometime past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women during a single year.

All suffering women are invited to write freely to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Depew as the Brides' Patron Saint.

[New York World:] Dr. Chauncey Mitchell Depew is in very fine feather these beautiful spring days. He has a smile for everybody and everybody has a smile for him. No greater evidence of the popularity of Dr. Depew can be had than that contained in the reception which the general public gives him on his drives. Dr. Depew has always taken the liveliest interest in young people. He likes to have them around him. Lately he has extended this liking to young married people and has constituted himself a sort of patron saint to such as go honeymooning over his railroad. His constant effort is to make it comfortable for the bride. The last instance of his endeavor in this direction was when the Rev. and Mrs. James le Baron Johnson nee Van Rensselaer, started off on their bridal trip last Wednesday evening. The bride-groom has a bungalow at Westport in the Adirondacks, and here it was that he and his bride agreed to pass their honeymoon. He placed a private car at their disposal, and in every other way at his command made the journey to the bungalow as short as possible. This is not an advertisement for Dr. Depews' railroad. It is simply a tribute to his gallantry. Depew as the Brides' Patron Sain

Fishes That Remember.

Fishes That Remember.

[New York Herald:] Zoölogists have long been in doubt as to whether fishes are gifted with the faculty of remembering persons and places or not. Some claim that they cannot remember, while others insist that they are endowed with memory, though possibly only in a limited degree. The following story seems to show that the latter are right:

A student of the polytechnic school, in Paris, recently noticed that whenever he walked with some friends in the Luxembourg Gardens the fishes in Luxembourg Gardens the fishes in the large basins there regularly fol-lowed him as he strolled around the little ponds.

As the students never feed the fishes

As the students never feed the fishes and hardly pay any attention to them, scuh conduct was inexplicable until it was solved by the gardener, whose duty it is to feed the fish. The uniform worn by the students of the polytechnic school is black, with red stripes, and that worn by the gardener and other attendants is very similar.

Now, evidently the fish thought that the students were gardeners who had come to supply them with food, as in no other way can we account for their habit of following the students whenever they walked around the basins.

Neither Army Nor Fleet.

Neither Army Nor Fleet.

LONDON, May 15.—The Rome correspondent of the Times says: "Sig. Crispi writes to the Nuova Antilagia that the arguments of the Vatican in favor of representation at The Hague are untenable, as the Pope has neither army nor fleet. He believes that the appearance of the United States in European councils will be followed by their intervention in all European dissentions.

A View of the Sultan.

A View of the Sultan.

Here is a first view of the Sultan as Mrs.
Max Muller sees him. She describes it in her "Letters from Constantinople:"
"The green enameled and richly-gilded barouche comes in sight, drawn by two glorious black horses, covered with golden harness, driven by a man in bright blue and gold livery, and on each side the grooms in blue and gold and every man in sight, naval. military, civil, master or servant, in the all-nervading but all-becoming fez.

"In the carriage sits a small yet stately man, in a simple cloth military overcoat, with no order or decoration of any sort, only his curved sword and a fez like the rest. His large hooked noce proclams his Armenian mother. His piercing eyes are raised to our window as he passes, but his face is still and immovable, and he salutes no one, though his whole person has a swayning motion, so faint that it may only be caused by the swaying movement of the carriage. Opposite His imperial Majesty sits Oeman Ghazi, the here of Pievna, almost his only intimate friend, whom he trusts implicitly."

[Harper's Bazar:] "Now I propose—" began Mr. Dinkey.
He was interrupted at this point by his auditor, Miss Beacon of Boston, who spoke substantially as follows:
"Mr. Dinkey, accuracy of language demands an explanation at this point.
Do you use the word 'propose' as a synonym of 'purpose,' or in its matrimonial sense?"

monial sense?"

Later developments showed that Mr.

Dinkey used the word in its mtarimonial sense.

When the steamer Falcon put into the bay very early Sunday morning and landed several men who wore an air of mystery as though they were the possessors of a deep, dark secret everybody was set to guessing. It was not until noon that the mystery was explained by the arrival in the bay of the excursion boat J. C. Elliott from San Pedro, with a large party on board. There was no attempt made to land by the excursionists, except two who paid the price and came ashore for lunch at the Metropole. After lying in the bay for an hour the boat left on its homeward trip. The men landed from the Falcon were officers armed with authority to arrest any one making a forcible landing from the tramp boat.

SPECIAL NOTICES-

TO TAXPAYERS AND THINKERS—
Intended on June 1, 1899, to begin the publication at Los Angeles of a monthly Journal to be called "Public Economy," to be devote to a discussion of the best methods of keeping down public taxes and assessments; State, county and municipal. It is believed that the present methods are crude, unjust, unequal and wasteful; the burdens so imposed are becoming so great as to discourage capitalists from the East from buying property here, and tend to drive our own surplus capital out of investment in real property in California. I will advocate among other reforms the abolition of all county offices excepting supervisors, district attorney and auditor, and empowering the supervisors to let out on contract to the lowest and best responsible bidder the work now done by the recorder, county clerk, tax collector, coroner, sheriff, the county treasurer and such subordinate offices as may be necessary to be appointed by the supervisors. Also the merging of city and county governments whenever possible, the whole business to be done by one set of officers. The assessor's office and annual assessments to be abolished. Let the clerk of the supervisors have an assessment roll prepared once in five years, to be equalized and finally declared to be the assessment roll prepared once in five years, to be equalized and finally declared to be the assessment roll by the supervisors; no duplicate to be prepared.

Abolish all license taxes on lawful trades and occupations which as the present system operates pay unduly on their property and business; substitute income tax in lieu thereof. Abolish all special taxes except in cases where the owners of real property in the district to, the value of 2-3 thereof declare in favor of it. I favor keeping the state and public clear from entanglements with any and all enterprises which can best be managed by private enterprise, but believe in the receal of the assistant. I believe in the repeal of the assistant.

will publish communications on both sides of these suggested reforms, and I nvite correspondence, my object being to direct the attention of the press and people generally to these questions, so that the next Legislature may take them up and act thereon. I intend to have the most distinguished men of the State write for the paper, and those who do not write I will have interviewed for publication.

I will take some advertisements to help me pay the cost of this work; the price of the paper will be si per year; with card, 33 in advance; usual rates for larger space. Address A. B. HOTCHKISS, Hotchkiss Block, 221½ W. Fourth st., Los Angeles, 16

Tammany Men.

[ASSOCIATED TRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 15.—Mayor Van

Wyck has been served with a subpoena to appear before the Mazet comission, and is expected to be on hand comorrow morning. The importance of the session that opens tonight is atended by a number of important Tammany men, who have been summoned to appear, of whom the Mayor and Comptroller are the most noteworthy.

Comptroller are the most noteworthy. The Mayor will be questioned concerning all his important doings as head of the city government, and his reasons for the removal of certain important city officials, such as Police Commissioners, who stood in the way of Chief Devery's promotion. His relations with Croker will be carefully looked into.

POLICE BOARD FLOPS.

CONEY ISLAND ATHLETIC CLUB GETS A LICENSE.

Jeffries Will Face Fitzsimmons in the Big Arena Which Alex Be Renovated.

The Californian is Quieter Than Ever, but Says He Will Win, as "Lanky Bob's" Friends Claim for Him.

Louisville-Red-hot. Ball at New York-Cricket.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] NEW YORK, May 15.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is determined that Jeff-ries and Fitzsimmons will face one an-other in the arena of the Coney Island Athletic Club on the afternoon of May 26, for at a meeting of the Police Board held here this afternoon, a li-cense for the fight was issued, Tam-many having changed its mind on the subject, as announced two days ago, as did the members of the board who had previously opposed the application of the club. The action was anticipated, and when the meeting was called to order there was a sporty-looking lobby in attendance. There was no discussion over the matter, and the former vote was rescinded and a new one taken with as much speed as possible. Alex Brown was present as a representative of the club, and as soon as the vote was announced he issued orders for a complete renovation of the big arena at Coney Island. A tremendous crowd is expected, and Brown intends to make ample provisions for its reception.

The delay over the granting of the icense and indecision as to where the fight would take place did not interrupt the training of the principals. Both are working hard, but it is early yet to get accurate lines on their condition. Fitzsimmons is favorite in the small amount of betting done so far at odds of 5 to 4.

The angular Australian has been out of the ring two years, and is ten years older than the Californian, yet his friends urge that he is as good as ever, and will appear to the control of th and will surely win.

Jeffries, usually very quiet, seems more than ever so now. He says he is sure of winning, but has nothing further to offer.

Howell of Australia Too Much for the English Cricketers.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS BAY REPORT.]

LONDON, May 15 .- [By Atlantic Cable.] One of the most important the matches to be played during the in this country of the Australian cricket eleven opened this morning at the Kensington oval, when the visitors met the Surrey eleven, one of the strongest in England. The home play-ers went to the wicket first, and on the wet grounds were dismissed one the wet grounds were dismissed one after another for a total of 114. Howell, the crack Australian bowler, taking all the wickets of the Surrey men for less than three runs aplece, in the case of those who were put out by him.

At the close of play today the Australians had scored 122 runs for four wickets down.

Referee Favors Him Though the Crowd Favored "Kid" Broad. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT SEPORT.]

BUFFALO, May 15.—Champion George added another to his long list of George added another to his long list of victories in the ring by winning from "Kid" Broad of Cleveland in twenty rounds in the Olympic Club tonight. Broad was in the best possible condition, but Dixon carried considerable superfluous flesh. Tom O'Rourke and Tom Sharkey were in Dixon's corner.

Broad forced the fighting at the start, and for the rounds did fully as well see and for ten rounds did fully as well as the champion, blocking the latter's leads beautifully, and coming back fast and strong. Dixon's left ear was cut in the fifth round, and bled freely.

Broad's left arm was badly hurt in the eleventh round, and he could not use it to advantage thereafter.

Dixon showed all his old-time cleverness but not his usual speed. He made the pace for the last half of the distance and the referee declared him to be the winner, although the crowd insisted on having it a draw. Dixon's margin was not a large one.

POPULAR STUDIES IN LITERATURE, VII.-THE FIRST GREAT ENG-LISH NOVELISTS. BY MAURICE FRANCIS EGAN, A.M., LL.D.

Smollett's "Roderick Random," "Pergrine Pickle" and "Humphrey Clinkr" are lesser novels than "Tom Jones" or even "Joseph Andrews." is a realist in the sense that he paints life as he sees it; and life is, in his eyes, wretched and sordid, relieved only by coarse humor, although in "Humphrey Clinker" he created char-acters which live beside some of those of Fielding and Dickens; that of Ta-bitha Bramble is one of these. He is generally named among the great nov elists, but the better taste of succeeding years will revise this dictum. He wrote good English, though it is at times almost as coarse as that of Swift. with "Clarissa Harlowe" and "Ton Jones." The Rev. Laurence Sterne knew his art, but he was as unfaithful to the professions of his calling as was Dean Swift. Thackeray's characterization of Sterne in the "English Humorists" is famous, and if we may judge from Sterne's own letters, not too, severe. He certainly did not put his ideals—and he no doubt had some—Into his "Tristram Shandy" and "A Sentimental Journey." It is hard for many of us to read "Tristram Shandy" today; but there are some who delight in its wit, humor and even its touches of sentimentalism. "My Uncle Toby" and the "Widow Wadman" are from life: the quips and jests and turns of wit—which are often after the manner of Rabelais—the borrowed learning—taken sometimes from that magazine of erudition, Burton's "Anatomy of Melanchojs"—delighted the contemporaries of this very secularized clergyman; but the glow seems to have departed; the coarseness remains, and some of the really humorous passages in this writer's "Tristram Shandy" are unquotable, because of what certain critics delicately call their "breath." Miss Burney, afterward Mme. D'Arblay, was put among the great novelists for a time. Her "Evellna" (1778) made a sensation. Dr. Johnson raved over it: it is deadly serious; the stilted language which the author writes is relieved by the frankness of an exceedingly rude Englishman and an equally rude old French woman. In spite of the defects of the plot, "Evelina" has fine qualities as a novel. It can be read with interest, and even more than once, Miss Burney repeats her episodes, but so much was not expected of the novelist then as now. She is as moral as Richardson; but in "Evelina" never so tiresome. There is that vital quality in her persons which makes us think of them as living. "Evelina" is the work of a very young woman, who describes life without knowing anything about it, and does it well. Surely this showed that she had a touch of genius. "Cecilia" MME. D'ARBLAY.

derers and ghastly nuns and monks, the report was current that in order to create them she herself supped on raw beeksteak. Sir Walter Scott, however, cast all such fantastle manners in the shade. Mrs. Radeliffe was influenced by the horrors and unrealities of the German writer, Kotzebue. Sir Walter was doubtless touched by the romantic power of "Gotz von Berlichingen," into which the "many-sided Goethe" had put such force. The difference between Mrs. Radeliffe and Sir Walter Scott is the difference between the insane and the sane, though each was the child of a romantic movement derers and ghastly nuns and monks

Like the wizard in the prelude many. Like the wizard in the prelude to William Morris's "Earthly Paradise." Sir Walter causes us to see what he chooses, and no scientific chronicler or exact archaeologist can ever make the past live for us as he made it live. Modern critics seem to be undecided whether "the Bride of Lammermoor" or "The Heart of Midlothian" is his greatest novel. It seems to me that in all these departments of literature which are intended to give delight, the all these departments of literature which are intended to give delight, the book that gives one the most elevated pleasures is the "greatest book." We have seen how taste changes; Sterne had once a greater vogue than Rudyard Kipling has now; Smollett was hailed with ecstasy and Miss Burney was looked on as a phenomenon of genius. The charm of Sir Walter remains, though his long prefaces are not read. A plan made by Miss Braddon, the novelist, to "modernize" his novels some time ago failed: the public find them good enough as they are. Miss Austen's novels are the fashion. In fact, they ran a great danger of being a "fad" a few years past. This would have been unfortunate, as they are too fine either for a fashion or a "fad." "Fride and Prejudice," "Sense and Sensibility" and "Mansfield Park" are masterpieces of observation, sympathy and that insight into the essence of things which we clumsity call genius. Miss Austen is the first of that school of novelists of which the works of Anthony Trollope, W. D. Howells and Henry James are distinguished examples. which are intended to give delight, the Gity Trustees Do Not Act Regarding Gambling Machines.

SANTA MONICA, May 15.—(Regular Correspondence.) The City Trustees at their regular weekly meeting today took no action in the matter of the nickel-in-the-slot gambling machines, which are in operation in various places in town. The fact that no action was taken is looked upon as confirming the impression, which has gained ground here of late, that the machines are not to be pro-libited.

Bids were received for the laying of a steel pipe to connect the salt-water tanks on the bluff with the trunk sewer near Railroad and Ocean avenues. The proposais were as follows: C. D. Middlekauff, $1183; J. F. Burslem, $1517; John M. Gardiner, $1185.50. Gardiner also submitted a bid for another kind of pipe at $1080.50. Trustee Gillis moved to refer the bids to the Sewer Committee with power to act, but City Attoracy Tanner said it was doubtful whether such power could be conferred on that committee. The bid of C. D. Middlekauff was then accepted.

The pipe is to be of steel, eight inches in diameter. From each of the tanks a connection will lead to the steel pipe, and the latter will continue upward to a point above the tanks. Each of the two connections will be provided with a gate. That will fix the construction so that the trunk sewer may be flushed with an eight-inch stream of sea water from either or both of the tanks, under a pressure head of nearly one hundred feet. When the sewer is not being flushed the gates in the tank connections may be closed, and it is expected that will provide an excellent system of ventilation for that part of the trunk sewer.

FOOLISH FILIPINOS.

The tactics which are being purued by the Filipino leaders, in filling their deluded followers with wild stories of the assassination of President McKinley, the slaughter of American soldiers by tens of thousands, the killing off of most of the American military commanders, etc., etc., are distinctly reminiscent of the tactics pursued by the Spaniards at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. This is not surprising, as the Filipinos acquired most of their ideas of warfare from the Spaniards. But they appear to have improved, so to speak, upon the Spanish art of exagreration-or to speak more correctly the art of lying. The imaginary slaughter of Americans by Filipinos the vallant barefoot fighters who "lead lives of imaginary violence" is more terrible and sanguinary than anything accomplished (in their flights of fancy) by our Castilian friends, the enemy, at any stage of the late war. It is, in point of fact simply blood-curdling, revolting, and altogether saturated with horror.

The purpose of these blind leaders of the blind is, of course, to screw up the waning courage of their tatterdemalion warriors to the fighting point. The wild extravagance of the falsehoods circulated is a certain indication of the desperation of the Filipino cause. But this frantic and foolish effort to inject life into a cause already practically dead will not avail. The end is close at hand, and it means the complete overthrow of the absurd, illogical, unjustifiable, and utterly hopeless rebellion of the Tagal tribes against the authority of the United States. When the truth shall have been revealed to the deluded followers of Aguinaldo, the wrath of these tin soldiers will be turned upon the leaders who have urged them on to death and ruin. These leaders will find their influence absolutely destroyed; and when their followers no longer have confidence in them, the Tagalo rebellion will be

If the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands could be made to under stand the situation as it really exists, they would hasten to place themselves under the protection of the Stars and Stripes. To do so would be to them a privilege, an honor, and a blessing. If they had understood the situation at the outset, there could have been no insurrection; for the hoisting of the Stars and Stripes over their territory insured to them a better, a stronger, a freer, and a juster government than they could hope to establish for themselves under any conceivable circumstances.

It is to be hoped that these misguided people will in the near future be made aware of the fact that the 'American flag is an emblem of freedom, not of oppression, and that under its protecting folds the rights of all men are safe. No flag on earth is so sure a guaranty of justice, and the Filipinos are honored, not degraded, in receiving the benefits which it affords to all who are under its protecting folds. The flag stands for justice and humanity, for peace and order; and it must be respected by the people over whom it floats whether at home or abroad.

CABRILLO'S PORT.

Commenting upon the historical ac-Pedro Bay, which appeared in the Jubilee Number of THE TIMES, the San Francisco Chronicle recently criticised us for confusing history, in stating that the discoverer of the California Coast, Cabrillo, entered San Pedro Bay, and pronounced it "a very good port." The Chronicle

"Doubtless the early navigator who so lengthened the path of Columbus would have been as complimentary as that if he had ever seen the beauties of San Pedro, but history shows be-yond the peradventure of a doubt that the port he entered and pronounced 'good' was that of San Diego. Upon that conclusion no historian or geographer, so far as we are aware, has ever expressed dissent.'

The writer of the editorial in the Chronicle is a little previous in asserting that historians and geogra-phers all agree on the fact that Cabrillo visited San Diego, not San It is, in fact, a question upon which historians and investigators differ greatly, as was brought out at the time of the Cabrillo celebration in San Diego, when there was quite a lively discussion on the subject.

The question as to which port (San Diego or San Pedro) was described by Cabrillo, or the person who wrote an account of his voyage, as "a very good port," has never been satisfactorily settled. Cabrillo describes a good port with good lands, valleys and plains lying in latitude 35 deg. which he named Bahia dc los Fumos or Fuegos. In this port he anchored after he came from the Island of San Salvador, now Santa Catalina. It has generally been conceded that this port is San Pedro, although some authorities have made it out to be Santa Monica. From this, by the way, it may be noted that the question of doubt between the two harbor sites is, after a fashion, more than three centuries old. Is it possible that here. again, is to be discovered the fine hand Italian of that ex-bogie man, C. P. Huntington?

If the writer of the editorial in the Chronicle means to infer that Cabrillo never visited San Pedro, he s badly out of his historical hearings. There is no doubt that Cabrillo entered the bay of San Pedro, although latitude of San Miguel (now Diego,) which Cabrillo's pilot describes as a "land-locked and very good harbor," does not agree with the latitude of San Diego, but does agree very nearly with that of San Pedro. H. W. Henshaw, who, a number of years ago, made a careful examination of the coast, and H. C. Taylor, U.S.N., of the Coast Survey, who aided him, identified San Pedro as the "land-locked and very good harbor" of Cabrillo. It is more probable that this was San Diego. ever, as we have said. Cabrillo did certainly visit San Pedro, and he undoubtedly thought it was a very good harbor, even if he did not say so. for Cabrillo, as is well known, had a level head. Had he lived in the year of Our Lord 1899, he would have been present at the San Pedro harbor jubilee con mucho gusto, and would have been seen in the act of grasping the hand of Brig.-Gen. John M. Wil-Chief of Engineers, at long range, and the hands of the men of the committees at short range, exclaiming in good Spanish,

A BOTANICAL GARDEN. Considering the fact that there is no important city in the United States so favorably located for the purpose, it is a subject for surprise that no steps have yet been taken to establish here a first-class botanical garden, in which plants and trees of the semi-tropic and temperate zonessome even of the tropical zone-might be seen and enjoyed by visitors, as well as our own people. We have, within the 3500-acre limits of the parks in the northern part of the city ocations which are almost entirely free from frost. Here it would be possible to make a display of delicate plant and tree growths, such as could not be duplicated in the United States-not even in Florida, as the riecent severe frosts in that State have shown that, unlike California. Florida has no known frostless belts Such a garden would not only add great attraction to the city, but would be of much value to our own people, who, as was pointed out in a recent discussion of the subject at the local Academy of Sciences, have at present no means of learning the correct name or character of a tree with which they desire to adorn their grounds, being forced to depend upon what they can see from an occasional tree in a neighbor's garden. A wellarranged botanical garden would be a great aid in further developing the beauty of the grounds for which Los Angeles is already so famous, as it would then be possible for anyone to ascertain all the facts in regard to a new variety of tree, and the conditions under which it will flourish In such a botanical garden, in Los Angeles, it would be possible to raise thousands of beautiful plants which in the East can only be raised under and 2000 varieties of trees and shrubs have already been introduced into the south of France, which has a climate not so mild as the frostless belts of Southern California. Of these, it is said that not more than 300 varieties at the most are represented or known

As the speaker at the meeting above referred to showed, such a garden as this might have more than a mere esthetic value. It would doubtless lead to the introduction in Southern California of valuable new trees and plants, which might be cultivated here on a commercial scale.

In the Elysian Park there is already small collection of rare and beautiful trees and shrubs collected by a former citizen of Los Angeles, which gives some idea of what may be accomplished in this line. Our floral processions have, in the past, brought thousands of visitors from a distance to Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Pasaiena and other cities. Such a botani cal garden as that suggested, with acres of rare blooming trees and plants, would be a permanent floral show, that would attract the attention of visitors from all parts of the country, and from abroad.

What enterprising citizen or public body will be the first to take up this first-class botanical garden for Los Angeles?

INDGE MORROW. It is known that upon the appointnent of Judge McKenna to the position of Attorney-General of the United States, District Judge William W. Morrow, of San Francisco, ceeded him as Circuit Judge in the Ninth Judicial Circuit. The high reputation of Judge Morrow as an upright and incorruptible jurist was in itself a guaranty that the duties of his new position would be discharged with the same scrupulous regard for the requirements of law and justice that distinguished his administration as District Judge. That guaranty has been amply fulfilled since Judge Morrow took his seat on the bench of the Circuit Court. His course has been such as to inspire the public with confidence in his personal integrity and judicial lighting of the city by electricity. If impartiality. It may truthfully be said of Judge Morrow that every suitor stands upon an equality in his court. The man of humble means or accuirements is as certain of justice as the man of wealth or of reputation As all men are equal in the eyes of the law, so all are equal in the eyes of this just judge and worthy representative of the law's authority majesty. When this is said, the highest praise that can be bestowed upon a jurist is spoken.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. usually cordial and enthusiastic Los Angeles, was the reception given last night to the Italian Grand Opera Company when it made its first pearance at the Los Angeles Thea Such hearty and spontaneous ap-plause as is seldom heard in this city greeted nearly every one of the great numbers in both "Pagliacci" and greeted nearly every one of the great numbers in both "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," and seldom has enthusiasm been better deserved. This band of singers from Italy more than fulfills every promise that has been made for it. So far as was shown last night, all the principal voices are exceptionally beautiful and well-trained, some of them are great. As artists, they are not only exponents of the best that is in the Italian school, but are hampered with very few of its defects. Their work is sincerity itself. In acting, as well as in singing, their strenuous, magnetic earnestness is unmarred by a trace of affectation or self-consciousness. They sing their souls into the music; they throw themselves without reservation into the spirit of the play; they carry conviction with everything they do, and yet, such is the delicious nalvete of these volatile children of the South, they can drop in an instant from a whirlwind of tense, tragic emotion, into the frankest and most delighted acknowledgment of applause and leave no jarring sense of incongruity in doing it.

To the deligat of those who appreciate the fitness of things, "Pagliacci" came first upon the double bill, instead of following "Cavalleria Rusticana," as is usual in this double bill. Beautiful as is Leoncavallo's masterplece, it loses in strength and intensity when compared with Mascagni's great work and it is at an inevitable disadvantage when heard immediately afterward. The exqu'site "Prologue" to "Pagliacci" was sung by Gaudenzic Salssa, the great baritone of the company. Sig. Salassa has a deep, sciparitone voice, as rich as uncut velvet, as full as an organ tone. His singing throughout the opera was second only to that of Sig. Avedano, but, of course, his great chance came in the "Prologue."

Fernando Avedano may truly be termed one of the few great dramatic 'Cavalleria Rusticana," and seldor

his great chance came in the "Prologue."

Fernando Avedano may truly be termed one of the few great dramatic tenors. His voice is rich, luscious, smooth and absolutely true. It is full of the most sensuous sweetness, linked with magnificent virility in the quality of the tone. His high, sustained notes are those of the "voix du clarion," ringing out like a trumpet of victory, and his pianissimo is like the mellowest murmur of a flute. Not tenor, in the Ellis forces has a voice to compare with him. As Canio, ir "TPagliacci," his greatest achievement was naturally the superb solo at the end of the first act, but even this hardly overshadowed his work in the great duet between Turiddu and Santal Canada and the contraction of the first act, but even the santal course of the contraction of the first act. great duet between Turiddu and San tuzza in "Cavalleria Rustleana."

great duet between Turiddu and Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rustleana."
"Santuzza" was beautifully sung by Bunca Barducci. an exceptionally gifted dramatic soprano. Her voice is rich, musical and beautifully clear and moreover, it is almost invariably accurate as to pitch. Her singing and acting both are full of dramatic fire and intensity, made doubly impressive by her sincerity. Her work as Santuzza was strikingly good in every detail, and in the great duet scene it was positively electric in its effect. Amelia Sostepni, the leading lyric so-

Amelia Sostegni, the leading lyric soprano of the company, sans the part of Nedda in "I'Pagliacci." Her voice is deliciously sweet and flexible, showing tenderness as well as brilliancy, and crystal clarity in the upper tones. Another of the lyric soprani was Ernestina Ubertó, who appeared as Hariequin in "I'Pagliacci," and Lola in "Cavalleria Rusticana." Both roles were compartively insignificant, but Signorina Uberto scored a success notwithstanding. As Lola, she was the embodiment of joyous insolence, Italian coquette to her finger-tips.

The two baritones, José Ferrari and

The two baritones, José Ferrari and Bugamelli, were fully up to the stand-ard in the parts of Alfio and Silvio both making the best use of voices of excellent quality, robust without roughness.

excellent quality, robust without roughness.

The chorus is certainly made up of well-seasoned material, and its work shows the comnact smoothness in ensemble gained by years of experience. As yet, the orchestra augmented by the local orchestra of the theater, is hardly used enough to itself to give the best support to the voices, but that is a difficulty to be easily overcome by a few more rehearsals. Its interpretation of the "Intermezzo" was beautiful.

ORPHEUM. One of the brightest and est bills afforded the habitues of this theater for several weeks was given its presentation last night to the usual packed house, every chair up-stairs and down being filled, beside a contingent of "standers," who stayed until the quartette of agile sisters in the closing turn had turned their last flipflop and the orchestra had played the final curtain to the ever-inspiring national air.

final curtain to the ever-inspiring national air.

Signor and Signora de Pasquill, who are the head liners this week, need no introduction to a Los Angeles audience, as their ability as artists was well established here upon their previous vist. They presented the garden scene from "Faust" last evening, Signor de Pasquill singing "Calvi Dimora" with splendid effect, his charming consort giving the "King of Thule" and the famous jewel song with the same richness and brilliancy that was so notably in evidence in her work at the time of these singers' previous appearance here. The audience was particularly cold in its reception of all the performers last night, as Monday night audiences usually are, and Signor and Signora de Pasquali were not exceptionally favored with applause, but they earned a full measure of accord, as these artists always do.

The four Nelson sisters are a wonderful team of acrobats, their tumbling being especially dashing and sensational. This quartette surpass, by long odds, any team of feminine acrobats yet seen at the Orpheum, and though unfortunately placed at the end of the bill, they were sufficiently attractive to keep at least two-thirds of their audience from bustling out of their seats before the completion of the act.

John and Harry Dillon are a team of newcomers who rattle off comic songs much as a machine, gun spits bullets, before the completion of the act.

John and Harry Dillon are a team of newcomers who rattle off comic songs much as a machine gun spits bullets, and they gained 'immediate favor. Much to the joy of all, they attempted no hoary-headed jokes or inane dialogue, but attended strictly to the business of singing, which no doubt attributed much toward their big success.

Lillian Burkhart having withdrawn herself from fairyland and become a dweller upon this mundane sphere again, with all a woman's love for jewels, pretty gowns and an infinite capacity for running her husband in debt in the playlet entitled "Extravagance," made a pronounced hit. She is well supported by Mr. Macurdy, who had such a struggle last week in doing business, or attempting to do business, with Grant Stewarts' fairy, and Miss Bessie Buskirk. The little skit is manifestly based upon "My Milliner's Bill," so charmingly played by Rosina Vokes in days gone by, and proper acknowledgment of the fact is made in the programme. Miss Burkhart plays the part of the extravagant young wife with all her innate charm and cleverness, and quite redeemed herself from last week's dreary flasco.

The Andersons put on a new eketch,

"The Coon and the Cherub," in which the double-jointed Al does some dancing that is unique in coon work. His walk-around between stanzas of his chicken song is a revelation in eccentric stepping of the George Cohan order. George W. Day, the monologuist and singing comedian, presents an entire change of bill, which is an improvement on that of last week, and the great Rio trio repeat their splendidly spectacular feats on the swinging rings. The same hill every night.

Tonight will be presented Donisetti's famous opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor," introducing for the first time in this city one of Italy's most famous singers, Italia V. Repetto, as Lucia. An even century ago Gaetano Donizetto was Italia V. Repetto, as Lucia. An even century ago Gaetano Donizetto was born, and it is more than sixty years since "Lucia di Lammermoor" was first sung on the stage of Naples, but time has neither served to dim the luster of the composer's fame, nor has it lessened the giories of the music set around the theme of Walter Scott's tragedy of "The Bride of Lammermoor." Signorina Repetto has made the character of Lucia famous in Italy, where she achieved a signal triumph. Pedro Bugamelli will sing the role of Sir Henry Ashton, Gilda Marchetti will appear as Alice, and Juan Badracco as Edgar.

Bicycle With a Bayonet.

[London Chronicle:] An ingenious French gentleman has invented an effective, if not altogether humane, device whereby to foil the malign purpose of the bicycle thief. He had a sharp steel spike, three inches long, fitted in the center of the saddle of his machine and provided with a spring joint, so that it could be raised erect on occasion, while it lay flat in a groove until required for use. Thus equipped the cyclist rode up to his favorite café in Paris, leaving his vehicle outside, after duly fixing his insidious bayonet. A few minutes later one of the marauders now so common in Paris came along, saw his chance, wheeled the biks into the middle of the road, and hoped in the twinkling of an eye to distance all pursuit. Scarcely had he started before agonizing shrieks summoned a crowd to the spot, and the impaled victim was picked up bathed in blood and unconscious for conveyance to the hospital. The inventor was so delighted with the success of his experiment that he has applied for a patent. Bicycle With a Bayonet. has applied for a patent.

DONALD M'LEAN.

Scotchman and Was Considered Leader Among Promoters.
[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

STOTIX CITY (Iowa.) May 15.-Donald McLean, promoter of the Short Line, or Sloux City, O'Neall and Western road, who was killed in Chicago last night by a fall from the fourth floor of the Palmer House, was probably the best-known railroad man in this section. He first arrived here in the latter 80s, with a scheme for a railroad to the Pacific by a route of his own, considerably shorter than any of the other transcontinental lines.
Local capitalists aided him to the extent of building as far as O'Neill, Neb., where funds failed.

The road subsequently passed into a receiver's hands, and is soon to be sold under foreclosure. McLean had made repeated efforts to get work started again, but failed each time. mong the country's promoters. his family history before he first came here, little is known. except that he was a Scotchman. He was also well-known among eastern capitalists.

IMPURE MILK.

Health Officer After People Accused of Selling It.

Deputy City Health Officer George W. Hood, who is acting milk inspector, yes-terday swore to seven complaints charging restaurant-keepers with serv-ing milk to customers that is below the legal standard of purity. The the legal standard of purity. The seven restaurant proprietors complained against are H. W. Lawrence of the New York Kitchen, No. 120 West First street; D. A. Warner, No. 504 South Spring, street; Mrs. H. A. Woodward, Marion Lunchroom, No. 416 South Broadway; Mrs. Nellie Clark, Rival Restaurant, No. 115 West Second street; M. Erkes, Hollenbeck Café, No. 214 West Second street; H. Miki, Grand Restaurant, No. 416 South Spring street; Mrs. M. Peterman, Superior Lunch. Warrants for the arrest of the defendants named were issued by Justice Morgan and placed in the hands of an officer for service, but no arrests have been made.

Deputy Hood has had samples of milk from various restaurants analyzed within the last few days and he proposes to proceed against all dealers whose milk fails to stand the test. The restaurant-keepers are not always to blame for serving poor milk, it is said, as they are imposed upon in many instances by dairymen from whom they obtain their supply.

The wholesale price of milk has been cut in some instances to 35 cents per three-gailon can, a price at which, the Health Office contends, no pure milk can be sold at a profit while feed is so high as it is now. Very few restaurant-keepers pay more than 15 cents per gallon for milk at wholesale, and it is contended that even that price is so low as to be an incentive to adulterate.

RED CROSS MEETING.

Trouble to Get Quorum-Mrs. Griffith Going to Europe. Mrs. J. M. Griffith, president of the local Red Cross Society, is having a great deal of difficulty in getting the directors of the association together. Two meetings have been called, but at neither of them has there been a quorum present. The president has now announced a meeting for next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and as important business is pending she is anxious that all the members of the board be present. A meeting was called for yesterday afternoon, but it was adjourned without transacting business on account of the small at-

The society received $11.80 yesterday as commission on the sales of the Clara Barton book. The local society is allowed 10 per cent. on all sales made by its members. In addition to that received yesterday, it is expected that 'an equal amount will be paid later, the sales of the book having already amounted to more than $118$.

Members of the society are at a loss to dispose of the quilt which was donated by the ladies of the East Congregational Church. An attempt was made to raffle it, but it proved a failure. There is probability of a temporary disorganization of the society on account of the departure of the president and secretary. Mrs. Griffith is planning a year's trip to Europe and expects to depart from this city within a few weeks. The secretary, Miss Holabird, is also going to leave Los Angeles soon.

Sent to the Florence Home.

Carrie Adams, a young woman who on Saturday, in Justice Austin's court, pleaded guilty to petty larceny, came up yesterday morning for sentence. Several nights ago the young woman went to the Seymour House and told a pitiful story of destitution, saying that she had no place to sleep. She was given a room, in the closet of which were several articles of ladies' wearing apparel. She took the clothes and disappeared, but was later arrested. Justice Austin sehtenced her to pay a fine, of $100, with the alternative of serving 100 days in the City Jail, but allowed Mrs. Bisbee, manager of the Florence Home, to take her to that institution, where she will be permitted to remain as long as her conduct is proper. If she behaves herself Mrs. Bisbee will eventually find a home for her, but if she again foils from grace she will have to serve her sentence in the City Jail. ceny, came up yesterday morning for sentence. It was suggested that as a preparatory step the City Englueer be directed to make a survey of the park and to pre-pare such plans as would enable him to make an estimate of the cost of such a system, in order that it might be included in the coming bond issue for the acquisition of the city waterworks. In support of his resolution Mr. Todd In support of his resolution Mr. Todd recited the fact that the contractors who were paying their men $2 per day on public work were the exception and not the rule; in fact, he could not call to mind any who were so doing. He did not know why the law was being thus violated, but he thought it due to the workingmen that they received that which the law provided they should receive. Some of the workmen, he said, working on important contracts are paid less than $1 per day, and since it was within the power of the Council to change this he thought it the duty of the members to do so. The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

L. G. Parker and others interested in the oil business submitted a draft of an ordinance, the purpose of which is to change the existing regulations with reference to the storing of oil in the city, and the proximity of oil tanks to residences and other buildings. It also provides for a system of inspection, and a series of tests of different grades of oil, making different regulations for oils of different character. The proposed ordinance was referred to the Fire and Water Committee, as the regulation of oil storage is a measure of fire protection.

A numerously-signed petition was received from property-owners on Wall street, asking that the name of that street be changed to Myrtle avenue. The matter was referred to the Board of Public Works.

SEVENTH REGIMENT MONUMENT.

SEVENTH REGIMENT MONUMENT A committee composed of Messrs. Slauson, Frank and Burnham appeared before the Council in the interest of the Seventh Regiment Monument Association. Mr. Slauson acted as spokesman for the committee. He said he supposed the Council was aware that it is intended to erect a monument to the decessed members of the Seventh Regiment, and that a fund had been raised and a design accepted. He said the committee was about to advertise for bids for the monument, but as yet they had secured no place at which the shaft was to be erected. It had been understood all along that it was to be placed in one of the parks, and the committee now asked the City Council for permission to place the monument in the Sixth-street Park. Exactly what point in that park had the Seventh Regiment Monument Asso Exactly what point in that park had not been decided, but he supposed it would be somewhere in the northeast

LIGHTING SPECIFICATIONS The new specifications for lighting the city, which will be made the basis

The new specifications for lighting the city, which will be made the basis of the bids that are soon to be received for a new contract to take effect the first of next January were presented by the Gas and Light Committee. In presenting them the committee filed an important report on the subject of street lighting in which some valuable suggestions are made. The report, which was presented by Councilman Vetter follows:

"Your Gas and Light Committee beg leave to report as follows, submitting for your approval specifications for lighting the streets of the city with electricity during the year from January 1 to December 31, 1990, to-wit:

"In view of the substantial reduction in cost of lights and the securing of improved and metropolitan service by the action taken by your honorable body last year, as well as in response to the request of several companies who are desirous of bidding upon the contract, your committee deems it advisable that every facility be accorded the competing companies, and that ample time be given to enable the successful bidder to properly fulfill his agreement.

"It is confidently expected that the introduction of power transmitted from water sources, and other causes tending to cheapen the cost of production of electrical power, will this year so reduce the cost of lights that your honorable body will be enabled to substantially increase the number of lights now in operation at the same cost as this year; thus affording to the public a more extended service with all its accruing benefits without increasing the expenditure for this purpose.

"In order that a duplication of distributing systems may be avoided, and all its accruing benefits without increasing the expenditure for this purpose.

"In order that a duplication of distributing systems may be avoided, and in order that bidders may be enabled, if they so desire to eliminate from their calculations the cost of erecting such system, with the ever-present contingency that at the end of a one-year contract it may be left as so much dead stock on their hands, your committee strongly recommends that action looking toward the acquirement by the city of its own distributing system of poles an wires be taken, for it is just as reasonable an in every way business-like that the city should own and control the poles and wires used for lighting its streets as that the owner of a building should, at his own expense, provide the wires for illuminating his building.

"Under such a condition, any and all bidders would be placed upon a footing of absolute equality and the city would be in a position to reap the full benefit from active competition, untrannieded by fear of excessive investment for a short-lived contract.

"In order that your honorable body may be in possession of data for the guidance of your final detarmination in this important matter, there has been arranged a series of specifications designated and described as follows:

"A' comprises the details of the

"B" is the same as "A." except that for each 150-foot mast, with three exceptions, there are substituted twice the number of lamps now used on such masts, making a total of 914 lights.

CITY ENGINEER'S REPORT.

The City Engineer officially notified the Council of the nonfulfillment by Sawyer & Arthur of the contracts for the construction of the Ninth-street Arroyo Seco and Los Feliz road bridges. The time for the completion of these contracts expired yesterday. The report was referred to the Bridge Committee.

The City Engineer also presented the following ordinances, which were adopted under suspension of the rules: Ordinance of intention to sewer Twenty-first street from Norwood street to Park Grove avenue, and Park Grove avenue, between Twenty-third and Washington-streets; to sewer Short street between Carolina and Hewitt streets; ordinance changing street names as follows: Mission boulevard south of Alhambra avenue, changed to Mission road; Mission boulevard (formerly Bauchet street,) changed to Mission road; Mission boulevard (formerly Bauchet street,) changed to Amita avenue; Anita street, in Ela Hill's tract, changed to, Flora avenue; ordinance establishing the width of sidewalks on streets of forty feet in width; ordinance of intention to grade, etc., Pellissier street from Eleventh to Pico under the Bond Act.

On the report of the City Engineer that the protests against the improvement of Sutter street represent a majority of the property frontage, the proceedings for that improvement were abandoned.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS' RE-

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS' RE-PORT.

During the noon recess the Board of Public Works had made an investigation of the proposition for a compromise of the condemnation proceedings to secure right-of-way for the Broadway tunnel through the property of Mrs. Lightfoot. It was decided that it would be better for the city to accept the proposition to compromise for $1500, and a recommendation that such a payment be made was approved by the Council. The board also recommended that the suit against Mrs. Nellie Fitzgerald be compromised for $250, and the Council adopted the recommendation.

The petition of G. E. Joslyn and others for the establishment of the grade and the improvement of Berendo street between Eleventh and Pico was granted, and the City Engineer was directed to present the necessary ordinance of intention.

The petition of a number of property-owners on Twenty-first street between Vermont and Budlong avenues for the grading, etc., of that street with the natural gravel, was referred to the Street Superintendent for investigation as to the character of the soil.

The Fire and Water Committee recommended that the petition of property-owners for water service on West Jefferson street be grantedd, and that the West Los Angeles Water Company be ordered to lay a four-inch main on that street between Orchard and Western avenues. The report was adopted. As the contract for repairing gooseneck hydrants is about to expire, the City Clerk, on recommendation of the Fire and Water Committee was directed to advertise for a new contract for one year.

Councilman Vetter presented another amendment to the salary ordinance containing reductions that had been overlooked at the time that the recent general reduction of salaries was made. The amendment which was adopted provided that the salary of the Street Sprinkling Inspector $90 per month, the Boiler Inspector $90 per month and the Street-swpeeing Inspector $67.50 per month. The amendment provides that these reductions shall be in force only for the months of May and June and that after that time the salaries shall be restored to what they have been heretofore.

DOG LICENSES TO BE DOUBLED.

A new ordinance regulating the licensing, catching and impounding of dogs within the city was presented. The measure is one of great length. It provides, among other things, that the dog license shall be $2 instead of $1, as at present, and that the fee for catching, impounding and destroying dogs shall be 50 cents instead of $1, as heretofore. The dog-catcher is to be a special policeman, to be appointed from among the force of special officers by the Chief of Police, and such assistants as he may require are to be similarly chosen. It is made a misdemeanor for any dog-catcher to enter upon private premises for the purpose of catching a dog, and ft is also made a similar offense for a dog-catcher to take a dog which may be tied or which is being led by line or chain. The owner of any dog to fail to pay the license thereon it is also made a misdemeanor, and both classes of misdemeanor are made punishable by a fine of $50 or imprisonment for fifty days. In times when there is danger of hydrophobia, it is made possible for the health department to order all dogs muzzled. As to the killing of impounded dogs, the ordinance provides that such dogs shall be destroyed only by means of gas, and that they shall be killed only in the presence of a deputy from the health office, who shall certify as to the number of dogs so DOG LICENSES TO BE DOUBLED. by means of gas, and that they shall be killed only in the presence of a deputy from the health office, who shall certify as to the number of dogs so killed. For any dog so killed the dog-catcher shall receive a fee of 50 cents. This ordinance was referred to the Finance Committee. Councilman Pierce said that he was opposed to several of its provisions, and unless they were changed he would vote against it. One of the reasons for the presentation of such an ordinance is that the dog fund has been in arrears for months, and it is expected that the increased tax and the great reduction in the fees for catching and impounding dogs will keep the fund somewhere near even.

On motion of Councilman Baker the Street Superintendent was directed to remove the obstructions from Yale street between Aligne and Ord.

Mr. Lauder moved that the Street Superintendent be directed to remove the old tracks from Los Angeles street between Second and Third, and to charge the cost of the work of removing them to the Los Angeles Railway Company, the company having failed to remove them within the time mentioned in a previous order. The motion was adopted.

as the Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church has ceased holding services and has resolved to disband as an organization and transfer all of its church membership to the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and that by reason of the premises, the object of the trust has become impossible.

In epitomized form the point raised by Mrs. Haas is that, under the law specifically relating to trusts, she is entitled to a revocation for the reason that it is provided that if the beneficiaries give consent the trustees can have nothing to say, as they are in no sense parties in interest. In the case at bar, two of the beneficiaries' have consented, and the third has passed out of existence. The fact of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church having disbanded also makes the carrying out the terms of the trust impossible, and for that reason, too, invalidates the trust. And as a concluding contention, Mrs. Hass avers that the deeds made reserved the power of revocation, in that no portion of her property should be conveyed unless she should execute the conveyance, and that the proceeds of such sale should remain subject to her desire or demand for any portion or all of the income or principal during her lifetime for her support, use and maintenance; and she alleges that she would not have signed the instruments, except upon the express provision that she should remain in exclusive possession during her lifetime, and with the power to revoke the deeds, if she so desired.

BOYS FOR IONE.

Care to Be Exercised in Segregating Criminals from Incorrigibles.

When the act to establish a State reform school for juvenile offenders at Whittier passed the Legislature of 1889, it was scarcely foreseen just how the act would work out. Several rea-sons have been given as explanatory of the fact that the work of reforming juvenile offenders has not been the success anticipated, but there has been one that has provoked attention re-peatedly, and that the District At-torney's office is about to take means section 16 of the act referred to provides that any girl or boy, between the ages of 8 and 18 years, convicted or crime—save where the penalty is life imprisonment or death—may be committed to the reform school by any Superior Court of the State, for a period embracing the term of such minor's minority. In section 29 of the same act provision is made for the commitment of incorrigible boys and girls, and also minors where proof has been made by the mother or guardian that the father is dead or has been made by the mother or guardian that the father is dead or has blittal drunkard, or does not provide for the minor, or where it appears that such minor is destitute of a suitable home and of adequate means of obtaining an homest livelihood, or on 16 of the act referred to proa suitable home and of adequate means of obtaining an honest livelihood, or is in danger of being brought up to lead an idle and immoral life. The act thus provided for three classes of juveniles that were to be eligible for admittance to Whittier—criminals under age, incorrigible boys and girls and minors likely to drift into a victous life. The first two classes have filled the school to overflowing, and consequently the third has been unrepresented.

a long time it has been realized

For a long time it has been realized that a great mistake was being made in confining the criminally-tainted in the same institution with minors that have been committed merely as incorrigibles and particularly as many of these incorrigibles have been guilty only of an excess of high spirits that led them into mischief and disobedience, having no criminal taint. The inevitable result of associating these two classes of minors has been the contamination of the better-disposed boys, particularly when the latter have been of comparatively tender years. To obviate this as much as possible in the future, it is intended by the District Attorney that when a boy well advanced in years, as when a boy well advanced in years, as well as crime, is brought up for comwell as crime, is brought up for commitment, that such representations shall be made to the court as will result in the boy being sent to the Preston School of Industry at Ione in preference to Whittier. As time passes the latter school will be given up to the younger boys, and the elder ones be gathered together at Ione, and there is said to be a general idea throughout the several counties that some such plan ought to be followed. The Preston School of Industry is being carried on under more favorable conditions, in some respects, than is some such plan ought to be followed. The Preston School of Industry is being carried on under more favorable conditions, in some respects, than is the school at Whittler. To begin with the school has a larger tract of land there being 600 acres, of which there are 175 acres under cultivation. The institutional method is being modified at Ione, too, and the family plan that has given such encouraging results in Great Britain and the Eastern States is being partially adopted. It being conceded that the preservation of the family life is far preferable to the massing of hundreds of boys together an effort in this direction is being made at Ione. The first building erected was the large administration building in which about 175 boys are housed; indeed, the full number at the school. There are now being erected, however, two new buildings on the new plan. These are large double cottages, each of which will accommodate 100 boys and will, be provided with dining and sitting rooms just as in any ordinary family, only on a more extended scale. Upon the boy being entered at Ione he is put in the lowest of the four grades, and thenceforward it depends upon himself whether the term for which he has been committed is cut short or not. There is a system of credits and rewards, and upon these the boy is promoted from grade to grade until he has passed from the fourth to the first, when he is eligible for release on parole. Corporal punishment has not been abandoned, but it is inflicted under stringent regulations. Any infraction of the rules is reported to the superintendent, and when corporal punishment is inflicted it is in the presence of the superintendent and by an officer of the school.

Half of each day is taken up with study, and the other half in learning some trade. Carpentering, tailoring bootmaking, electrical engineering printing and bookbinding, blacksmithing, are all taught, and shorthand and typewriting are also added to the general course of study. Generally the system of study is the same as in the public s

Trial of Young Stephen Lukini Now

Stephen Lukini was brought to trial yesterday in Department One, before Judge Smith and a jury, on the charge of burglary. The defendant is but 17 years, and has resided in the district about Alpine and Ord streets.

It is alleged that Lukini stole a large piece of meat from a butcher shop, and was seen by a police officer talking with a number of other boys, with the meat still in his hands. He was thereupon put under arrest, but when being upon put under arrest, but when being taken to the Police Station contrived to escape from the patrol wagon. From thence on the efforts of the police to find him were unavailing, but he finally surrendered himself to the authorities on the advice of his friends, maintaining his innocence and telling a story of his having lawfully come into possession of the meat he is now being tried for stealing. The prosecution closed its case, save for one witness, yesterday.

THE HOWARD CASE. About a year ago Charles S. Howard of Pasadena tried to obtain a divorce from Ellenor Howard, but failed in the attempt. Now he is again in court making the second attempt, and yesterday was before Judge Trask to show cause why he should not be made to pay attorney's fees. When asked by his wife's counsel what money he had on deposit in the bank the plaintiff told him that it was none of his business how much he had. The wife forsook the old Coronel mansion on Central avenue, locked the doors, and, placing two officers in possession, made her home at an up-town residence. The house, with the rest of the Coronel property, is in the name of Dr. Smith, all of which is covered by the attachment issued in the suit instituted to make the doctor reconvey all the property made over to him. D. P. Smythe, Southern Pacific agent

D. P. Smythe, Southern Pacific agent at Bloomington, and L. J. Monnet, agent at Bassett, are about to change places.

C. G. Worden, superintendent of the oil wells being put down north of Anaheim for the Santa Fé, came to this city a few days ago to his home, feeling somewhat ill. He died Sunday night, as it is supposed of heart failure. Mr. Worden has been with the Santa Fé for many years, having formerly been superintendent of bridges and buildings. Many of the steel bridges on the line were put up under his supervision, H. R. Duval, president of the Florida Central and Peninsular Railroad, and a director in the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, is paying the State a visit. Yesterday he went to Coronado, where he will stay a few days. He will then visit Santa Barbara and finally go to Yosemite Valley, on his way home by the northern route.

PRESS WOMEN'S DELEGATE. Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden Chosen

to Go to London.

Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, who is to represent the Press Women of the United States at the quinquennial meeting of the International Council of Women in London next month, and who will address the council on "Women in Journalism in the United States," is the daughter of Oliver S. Westover, who was once proprietor of a curio store in this city, and now lives in Santa Monica.

lives in Santa Monica.
Following are extracts from a sketch of Mrs. Alden's life, sent out by the Press Committee of the National Council of Women:
"Mrs. Alden was born in Alton, Iowa. Her mother died when she was very young. When she was four years old her father became a member of a geological expedition, which was going by emigrant train to the Rocky Mountains, and it might be said that her career commenced at that time.

that ther career commenced at that time.

"The use of firearms was one of her earliest accomplishments, and her unerring marksmanship has more than once saved her own life and the lives of others. A mounted head and skin of a buffalo which she shot when she was 12 years old, was exhibited in the Colorado building at the Centennial Exhibition in 1876.

"Besides the many relics of Indian and pioneer life scattered about her home in Brooklyn, there is a corner fitted up with mementos and trochies of her girlhood days. Conspicuous among them are her bow and arrow of the kind that she practiced with a a girl, the head of a mountain sheep

Mrs. Alden, then Miss Westover, at tended the schools of Denver and graduated from the University of Colorado. After teaching a year she went to New York and studied music and modern languages, and later received an appointment as inspectress in the customhouse. Meantime, she had begun writing for the papers. In 1896 she became the editor of the woman's page of the New York Recorder, and when that paper ceased publication in 1896 she was given the same position on the New York Tribune. She was married to John Alden, one of the editors of the Recorder, in 1896.

Mrs. Alden was appointed by Mayor Strong of New York to represent that city at the Tennessee Exposition upon the celebration of woman's day at Nashville, October 12, 1896.

CATALINA DE CUBA.

A TYPICAL INTERIOR TOWN UNDER

Nearly Eight Thousand Population Reduced by Starvation to Eighteen Hundred - Homeless Childern-Red Cross to the Rescue.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES. CATALINA (Cuba,) April 29.-After OATALINA (Cuba,) April 29. Alter Dr. Hubbell the Red Cross field agent, assisted by three American ladies and a Cuban physician, had been working a fortnight in Guines and Catalina, I came over from Havana to see what progress they had made. Guines (pronounced (Wee-nls,) is the largest town, next to the capital, in Havana province. It lies southeast from Hayana city, about forty miles' by rail, and Catalina is fifteen miles The United Railway of Cuba having grudgingly given half-rate transportation to Red Cross members, I took my printed order for mitad de precio—mitigation of price—to the "Jefe de la estacion," and paid $2 for half-rate to Catalina, receiving therefor a three-cornered bit of past-board which the accommodating "Jefe" cut crosswise with a pair of shears from the regular ticket. Thus a little mental arithmetic will show that full fare for the short journey, in the coin of the country, minus 20 cents on a dollar, exchange, is $4.80. Rather expensive traveling is this in Cuba, all things considered. The ramshackle old cars, discarded years ago from some ancient mitigation of price-to the change, is $4.80. Rather expensive traveling is this in Cuba, all things considered. The ramshackle old cars, diecarded years ago from some ancient railroad of England or the United States, are labeled first, second and third-class. What the second and third-class es are like may be left to conjecture. Those of the alleged "first" grade are about like emigrant cars on our western railways, except that these furnish no drinking water to thirsty travelers, or other conveniences whatever; no train boys sally through, bringing books, fruits and gum, and in some cases there is no glass in the windows—only wooden shutters which when closed to keep out dust exclude the blessed air as well, to say nothing of the pleasant prospect.

Barring "railway discomforts, the journey to Catalina is delightful, leaving Havana at 1 p.m., changing cars at Guines and reaching the destination not far from 5 o'clock. The face of the country differs greatly from that seen along the other branch of the United Railway leading to Matanzas and Clentuges. The secentry in this corner of Cuba is not unlike that of Ohio and Indiana—except the absence of cultivated farms and the continual presence of royal palms, long lines of them trending off in all_directions like plumed soldiers om questions. Here and there hedges of yellowish-green foliage, resembling Osage orange, remind one of the great prairie farms of Illinois, and fences of piled-up stones speak of thrifty New England. Clear streams are frequent; corn is knee-high in a few scattered fields, and the thick, coarse of the country is the second of the country of frequent; corn is knee-high in a scattered fields, and the thick,

Such desecration was the more remarkable since the Spanish army, to a man, was Roman Catholic, with the hereditary veneration strong within him for so-called sacred things. A great many negroes are seen lounging around the railway stations, most of them wearing the light cotton uniform and turned-up-in-front straw hats, that distinguish the Cuban soldiers. "Othello's occupation's gone;" and he handles his beloved Remington or Mauser-probably stolen from some dead Spaniardas if longing for another job of the same nature. Each station is also the residence of its "Jefe" and affords glimpses of family life to the passing traveler-rocking chairs and sewing machines and beruffled beds, and senoritas diling behind the window bars. Another odd thing is that the shabby little depots are provided with the low, swinging doors of stained glass, set in patchwork patterns, which form such a distinctive and highly-ornamental feature of Cuban cassa of the better class, beautiful to look, but much too frail, one would think, for every-day hard usage in public places.

Cataling shows the ravages of war much more plainly the such a distinctive and highly-ornamented feature of Cuban casso of the places.

catalina shows the ravages of war cutes have plainly than the larger of cities, having had, until now, no outside assistance. It is a typical interior town and one of the cleanest I ever saw. Its low houses of unplaned boards, set close together in straggling rows, are whitewashed inside and out and each is faced by a rude veranda, the stepets, with grass and weeds growing thickly among the stones, have a broad, deep ditch along each side. The verandas come up even with the a broad, deep ditch along each side. The verandas come up even with the ditches, and each house door is reached by a large, flat stone, or plank, which answers to the draw-bridge across a moat. Streets and verandas are swept scrupulously clean, though chickens wander in and out at will, and occasionally a fat, black mothers big leads her interesting family across the bridge to pay a social visit was terra cotta-colored earth is a brighter but than even the "sacred soil" of Virginia, and the empty, grass-grown streets somehow remind one of down-at-the-heel old Alexandria, near Washington, D. C. Three years ago Catalina had something over 8000 inhabitants and today has barely 1800. This calculation does not include the reconcentrado influx, but reckons only the normal population. Where are the rest, do you ask? Gone to glory, my friends, by the slow but sure route of starvation, assisted for a time by smallpox. During the latter scourge the authorities thought to stay its ravages by compulsory inoculation, with the result that hundreds of the poor creatures died of it, being too feeble to endure vaccination.

The quaint old village church, with its stone stairs outside leading up to a dilapldated tower full of rusty bells, is vaccination.

The quaint old village church, with its stone stairs outside leading up to a dilapidated tower full of rusty bells, is in a more deplorable state than most of its neighbors, having longer stabled the Spanish horses. The interior is a total wreck, floors entirely gone and altars broken into kindling wood. Of all its sacred belongings but one thing is left—a painting of the Virgin and Child, placed too high upon the wall to be easily reached, and as we enteed the dreary ruin, a ray of sunlight from the open door illumined the infant Christ as with a halo, an omen, let us hope, of blessings to come. From among the debris of human bones, bits of harness and broken horseshoes scattered under foot, I pleked up a skull, evidently that of a half-grown youth, one side gone, cut smoothly off by a saber or machete stroke.

Later we walked down the weedy road to the Campo Santo, at the edge of the village. It is a tiny God's acre, with walls of plastered stone and a larger and later annex fenced with split palm trunks set upright in the red earth. A row of black vultures, perched above the arched gateway, gazed at us with speculative eyes, but did not stir, having probably made foo many hearty meals on the human species not to regard them with favor. The gate to this poor little "Field of Saints" was tied with a bit of rope, and its red soil without a blade of grass or green thing growing, has been rounded up into regular mounds. It

Saints" was tied with a bit of rope, and its red soil without a blade of grass or green thing growing, has been rounded up into regular mounds. It was swept as clean as all the rest of the village, barring an occasional scattered rib or marrow bone. There are a few rather pretentious graves, each surmounted by a glass-faced lox containing the hideous wreaths of black and white beads which find such favor in the eyes of mourning Spanish-Americans. Other graves were marked by black-painted wooden crosses, but the great majority had only two sticks, tied together in cruciform fashion, laid on top or stuck in the earth at the head. Vagrant breezes and passing footsteps soon disarranged this symbol of the Christian's hope which some stricken heart has placed above its beloved dead, and though the emblem means, personally, little to me, I blem means, personally, little to me, I have hundreds of times stooped to re-place it and tie the crosspiece more

ARMY AND NAVY CONSUMPTIVES

Government Sanitarium at Stanton the First of Its Kind Case of Mrs. Rich-Rough Riders Reunion-Lee and Gilliland.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES. EL PASO (Tex.,) May 12.-Mrs. J. D. Rich, for whose extradition Mexico made application last week, did not ap-pear before Judge Sexton on Wednesday, as was expected, claiming that she was too ill to do so. The case was in onsequence postponed until the 18th o

M., went up to Alamogordo some days ago to secure witnesses for the trial of Lee and Gilliland, who are accused of being responsible for the disappear ance of Col. Fountain and his little so about three years ago. The trial will open at Hillsboro, N. M., on the 25th inst. It is said that the Territory is determined to be ready for trial if possible.

Dr. J. O. Cobb, who is to have charge of the government sanitarium at Forstanton, N. M., says that only invalidation the army and navy will be admitted. He cannot tell when the buildfrom the army and navy will be admitted. He cannot tell when the buildings will be ready for patients, as many of them have gone to ruin and will require extensive repairs, which have not exen been commenced yet. Bids for the work will be called for in a short time. It will probably take several months to get the place in order. Dr. Cobb says that there are hundreds of consumptive soldiers and sailors at other hospitals who will be brought to the new sanitarium as soon as possible. He admits that the method of treatment will be a new departure for the government, but he declines to give any information upon the subject, further than that the hospital at Fort Stanton will be the first of its kind in the United States, and its method of treating consumptives unique. The sanitarium will be connected by rail with El Paso as soon as the extension of the Northeastern Railroad, now being built, reaches that point, and will draw a great part of its supplies from this city.

would not amount to much, and inconsequence.

J. G. D. Boyd, a wealthy cattle man from Casas Grandes neighborhood, in Mexico, was in El Paso a few days ago. He said that one evening some time ago a man by the name of Quigley, a former resident of Deming, N. M., who was well known to him, accompanied by another man, passed his house. He invited them to spend the night, but they insisted on going on. The following morning Boyd sent some men out to bring in his work horses. The horses could not be found, but a number of pack animals were grazing on the place. Boyd followed the trail and five miles away he came to the place where Quigley and his companion evidently camped. One of the party pointing to a spot where buzzards were flying, they went there and found the body of Quigley a few feet beneath the surface with a fearful wound in his head. The deed had evidently been committed with a pick while he was asleep. It was decided that the Deming man had been murdered and robbed by his partner, who had also stolen Boyd's horses. It is believed that the murderer will soon be captured.

It is said that the Texas Legislature will appropriate $40,000 for the maintenance of the State Rangers. About the only opposition to the ranger service comes from east Texas members, who do not know the great usefulness of the brave band of men to the unprotected sections of the western country. The rangers have not only proven themselves useful in the suppression of lawlessness in the frontier country, but they have often been called upon by the authorities to assist in preserving order in some of the western country. with as much enthusiasm as if he were the winner.

It was a clean fight from the start, and a hopeless one. It was announced that Thompson weighed 142 and De Courcy 124 pounds, and it was evident that Thompson was the stronger and heavier of the two.

Thompson is the cleanest, fairest fighter in the ring, and De Courcy is usually careful in breaks, but last night, in the desperation of a losing fight, De Courcy permitted himself to take unfair advantage of Thompson's consideration. The assistant referees consideration. The assistant referee ngnt, De Courcy permitted himself to take unfair advantage of Thompson's consideration. The assistant referees on the benches were noisily in evidence, as usual, and yelled "fowl" whenever Thompson got in a punch at close quarters. These noisy nuisances, who don't know a clinch from a short-arm mix-up, are always yelling and making decisions, and nobody but John Brink ever has been able to suppress them. The less a man knows about the game, the more noise he makes when the man upon whom he has wagered two-bits seems to be getting the worst of the fight.

De Courcy was unable to strike hard enough to do much damage, although by a fluke he did knock Thompson down in the sixth round. He weakened rapidly, and saved himself several times by going to his knees and staying down nine seconds. He was whipped early in the fight and he knew it, but he would not quit. He came to the scratch in the thirteenth round, willing to take his punishment and fight to the end, but the referee saw the hopelessness of his case and awarded the decision to Thompson to save De Courcy from a useless beating. Nobody was hurt, and no blood was drawn.

The preliminary contest was fifteen rounds between Mike Thornton and Young Dempsey. Dempsey had the more experience and knowedge of the game, but Thornton was on deck all the time, and the bout was declared a draw, to the satisfaction of everybody.

WHEELMEN ORGANIZE. Branch of the L.A.W. is Formed in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles Consulate No. 1 of the League of American Wheelmen was organized last evening with a charter membership of twenty men, at the rooms of the Wanderers' Cycling Club, No. 345 South Main street. In addition to organizing, the wheelmen adopted a constitution and elected officers. These are the steps necessary to take before are the steps necessary to take before application can be made to the L.A.W. for a charter. The charter will be applied for immediately, and will doubtless be on hand at the next meeting of the cyclists, which will be held at the same place next. Monday evening.

J. S. Thayer acted as temporary chairman and called the meeting to order shortly before 9 o'clock. The pro-chairman and called the meeting to order shortly before 9 o'clock. The proceedings set down by the L.A. W. for the organization of consulates were followed, and the meeting proceeded to the election of officers. F. M. Coulter was chosen as president and J. J. Jenkins as secretary. Following the election of these two officers, a resolution was adopted, in which it was resolved to work for the improvement of streets, the establishment of cycle paths, the crection of guide boards and the proper enforcement of ordinances and street regulations.

the establishment of cycle paths, the erection of guide boards and the proper enforcement of ordinances and street regulations.

The constitution as given out by the L.A.W. for the use of consulates in organization was adopted, on the condition that it might be changed at any regular meeting of the organization. There was considerable discussion as to the adoption of a constitution without a copy of it being presented to the meeting, but the provision relative to changes satisfied those who were in doubt and the regularly prescribed measure was accepted, although there was not a copy of it at the meeting.

The following officers were elected, in addition to the president and secretary; F. M. Coulter, senior counsel; J. H. Martin, junior counsel; J. H. Johnson, treasurer; E. A. Pickrell, G. F. Conant and W. B. Raymond, board of governors, and Dr. O. S. Barnum, Eugene Bassett and J. S. Thayer, representatives to the State board of officers.

Following the transaction of the regular business there was considerable discussion as to the aims of the organization, and the work it hopes to accomplish. Scorchers came in for a round scoring, and the members were of one opinion in condemning fast riding within the city limits Lamp and bell ordinances were discussed, as well as laws placing a license on vehicles. There was considerable difference of opinion as to whether bleycles are included in the category of vehicles, and the members were not backward in expressing their intention of working a great influence on the law-making body of the city. There were about thirty wheelmen present at the meeting last evening, and it was agreed that each one should invite several others to attend the next meeting. All wheelmen, whether members of the LA.W., or not are to be welcomed to the meetingsgot the consulate, and subjects of general interest to cyclists will be considered by the new organization.

LIQUID AIR.

Is Unlimited Power from it Fallacy?

[Literary Digest:] Charles E. Tripler persists in his assertion that he can make ten gallons of liquid air from the power derived from three gallons in a recent discussion of the subject in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at which the inventor was present, he spoke as follows as reported by the official stenographer of the society:

present, he spoke as follows as reported by the official stenographer of the society:

"There have been a good many pretty wild statements about this air. They are only wild because we do not know anything about it. Prof. Chandler the other night said we are down in a temperature and in conditions that we know nothing about. It has been myprivilege in fussing around in different branches of natural science to strike onto this thing. They want to know how I did it. I did not do it by droping into it. I did it by hard work, sitting up nights, ruined my eyes, and all that sort of thing.

"There was a remark made in a paper that has troubled the scientists, and I have got more letters, and more people have talked to me about it, from all over the country than you would readily believe. The remark was that I can make ten gallons out of three gallons. I am talking here before an intelligent audience composed largely of engineers, and I can say that not only can I make three gallons, but I can make 500 gallons. Three gallons are enough to run an engine. These young men here this evening have shown you that you can condense this air the same as you can water. It is only a matter of temperature. Liquid air is simply the air in this room with the heat taken out of it. If I can find something that will take the heat out of this room, I have got liquid air. Nature does not use any ponderous conof this room, I have got liquid air. Nature does not use any ponderous condensing engines, but she makes more cold than we know anything of. This g cleasing engines, but she makes more cold than we know anything of. This stuff in nature's laboratory would be solid. All we have got to do is to go twenty miles up in the air, and take that with us. If we could, and that would be solid. I can take that in my laboratory and freeze it solid. I can take that in my laboratory and freeze it solid. I can take that in my laboratory and freeze it solid. I can take that in my laboratory and freeze it and run it down in a stream. Now, if we take our three gallons of air and charge a suitable piece of machinery and use that three gallons over and over again, I see no reason why we should not make ten gallons or loo gallons, ag long as we use that power for making liquid air. I use steam at present for making liquid air. I use steam at present for making liquid air. I use steam at present for making liquid air. I use steam at present for making liquid air. I use steam at othine, and we use the ammonia over and over again, and we make ice, make cold. Now if you wanted to condense ammonia instead of making ice, you would not think anything if I told you I could condense 500 gallons or pounds of ammonia, because you know of it; but you do not know anything about this thing, that is the trouble."

Of course much depends on this assertion of Mr. Tripler's, and that is why scientific men are unwilling to believe it until they see the thing actually done. If Mr. Tripler has done what he tells us he has done, they say, he has placed at our disposal in the atmosphere about us an unlimited source of power; in other words, he has done with atmosphere after perpetual motion tried to do with gravitation—made it the means of getting out of a machine above the amount of work over and above the amount of work over and above the amount of work over and above the amount of the American Machinist is as follows:

"Mr Tripler . . not only shows us at the same time time would be in the waters of the ocean if we could find some lower level into which they could be continually induced to flow.

"It is unfortunate for Mr. Tripler, and much to be regretted, that he should be making these absurd statements. His work in producing liquid air in large quantities and by simple apparatus is an important achievement, for which he is entitled to the highest consideration, and for which he should receive sufficient pecuniary reward, but, it becomes more and more evident continually that Mr. Tripler does not know as yet much more than the rest of us how to use the liquid air in practical and profitable ways. While of great value in the laboratory of the in practical and profitable ways. While of great value in the laboratory of the investigator, and also promising to be of help to the surgeon, and in some other minor ways, it does not yet touch the everyday work of the world in a helping or a transforming way, and so there is as yet little money in it."

In the Stevens Institute Indicator, President Henry Morton of Stevens Institute of Technology thus subjects Mr. Tripler's claims to mathematical analysis:

"We are told that Mr. Tripler uses times in reaching atmospheric temperature and pressure. This also is substant ture and pressure. This also is substantially correct. . . If we apply to the above data the well-known and universally accepted formula for the maximum work done by air when expanded at constant temperature . . . we find that a pound of liquid air in expanding 800 times would develop about 190,000 foot-pounds of work. As a gallon of liquid air welghs about eight pounds this would give eight times as many foot-pounds, or 1,520,000 If this work were accomplished in an hour it would represent almost exactly three-fourths of a horse power, because one horse power means 1,980,000 foot-pounds of work per hour, and 1,520,000 is only a trifle over three-fourths of this.

velop in an ideally perfect engine without any loss from friction or other cause would be about three-fourths of a horse power for an hour for each gallon of liquid air expanded
"We have seen, however, that with his fifty-horse power plant, which on account of its size should operate with considerable efficiency, Mr. Tripler makes only one gallon of liquid air with ten horse-power hours. In other words, he requires to make a gallon of liquid air twelve times as much power as a gallon of liquid air could pissibly develop in an ideally perfect engine.

pissibly develop in an ideally perfectengine.

"In face of this, how supremely absurd is the statement that with a little engine such as the pictures and descriptions in the McClure article show, lacking all conditions for efficient work, Mr. Tripler an make ten gallons of liquid air by the use of three."

President Morton says in conclusion: "The really difficult thing to explain in connection with this McClure article on Mr. Tripler and his liquid air, is how those concerned in its publication (being, as I do not doubt, honest men,) can be deceived or have so deceived themselves as to make and repeat and an be deceived or have so deceive hemselves as to make and repeat suc byiously impossible statements the compressor is the essential factor. The ammonia does not reliquefy itself, nor can the liquid air do so; still less can it liquefy another and a larger volume than itself.

"It is unfortunate for Mr. Tripler,

"We are told that Mr. Tripler uses to make his liquid air a steam engine of fifty-horse power, and that with this he can make liquid air at the rate of fifty gallons a day. This I know from other sources is substantially correct, and means that each horse power in a day (say ten hours) makes one gallon of liquid air. In other words, one gallon for ten horse power hours.

"It is again stated . . . that a cubic foot of liquid air contains 800 cubic feet of air at ordinary atmospheric temperature and pressure, or, in other words, any volume of liquid air, if adequately heated, will expand 800 times in reaching atmospheric temperature and pressure. This also is substantially

The failure of the mortgage security to satisfy the debt does not annul the debt. The proper way is to take a deficiency judgment on foreclosure.

H. E. P. asks: A man dying in New Hampshire leaves real estate and money in that State; he also leaves money in a bank in San Francisco. He made a will and appointed an executor in New Hampshire. Will there have to in New Hampshire. Will there have to be an executor appointed in San Francisco before the heirs oan get their money from the San Francisco bank? The executor properly qualifying in New Hampshire can file his letters with a copy of the probated will in San Francisco if he has to sue the bank; otherwise, the bank has full right to pay the money to him on the presentation of his letters of administration and the will duly certified.

A. D. writes: A owns forty acres of land joining the main ditch of an irrigating company; the right-of-way is owned by the company, and A has nothing to pay for it.

B has forty acres below the property of A. A refuses B the privilege of a ditch through his place unless B pays him. Can the ditch company condemn land for a right-of-way for a ditch through A's place?

The ditch company, under the irrigation laws, can condemn lands, where necessary, but must pay A for the land taken and the damages he sustains thereby.

T. E. B. writes: A buys a lot from B on the installment plan, and pays $25 as first payment, and then stops. Now if A has the agreement recorded would that cloud B's title to the lot?

An agreement is not a title, and if placed on record it is no cloud if forfeited by non-compliance with its terms.

F. B. B. writes: I am engaged to a lady who was married and divorced five years ago, but in the divorce proceedings she did not get her maiden name, but has gone by it since then. Will I be laying myself liable if I obtain a marriage license and give her maiden name? Her husband has gone away and there is no one else who would cause any trouble, is there? There is no trouble in the matter. You can use the maiden name at pleasure. There is no law against it. (71 Cal., 255.)

P. S. asks: First, does the tenant have to give the landlord any notice before moving? Second, does not the landlord have to give the tenant a month's notice in advance if he wishes the tenant to move? Third, if the tenant is month extends from the 10th of one month to the 10th of the next, must he be out of the house before the day of the 10th of that next month? Where a tenancy is for a definite time, as from month to month, no notice is necessary on either side. He has the day of the 10th to remove in.

I.G. writes: Mr. B. had a deed of his property made out, but not recorded. The property was deeded to his wife. This was to go into effect at Mr. B's decease. The lawyer who drew up the document said: "Shail I keep it?" Mr. B said: "Tes," but for no stated time. Afterward he asked for the deed, and the lawyer refuses to give it up, saying that he has no right to do so. Can he legally hold it? Now, with this document in existence, can Mr. B sell his property? Are the laws in California and the other States the same in regard to this?

The law is the same everywhere as to the delivery of a deed; namely, that until actual delivery either to the grantee or an agent of the grantee authorized to receive it, the deed is absolutely subject to withdrawal by the grantor. The lawyer to whom it was entrusted for safe keeping has no right to hold it against the wish of the grantor nor to deliver it without his consent.

Mr. B has the right to sell: but, if in

Mr. B has the right to sell; but, if in any-way, without lawful delivery, the deed should be recorded, it would be a cloud on the title. The better way is for Mr. B to recover the deed from the lawyer by an action of replevin.

C. C. writes: A purchased a certain amount of stock in a California mercantile corporation (which had been doing business for several years,) composed of five stockholders, who were directors. Should A have reason to believe that the business is being intentionally operated by the five directors prepjudiciously to his interests, has A any legal recourse? In the instance alluded to, the corporation has no bylaws—apparently an oversight in incorporating.

luden to, the corporation has no bylaws—apparently an oversight in incorporating.

Would this fact in any manner affect the concern as an incorporation?

Could this defect be ecured at the present time, or in the future by the five directors without consulting A as to the provisions of the same?

A's stock was purchased from the treasury. Would it make any difference whether or not he knew of the defect at the time of purchase?

In California and everywhere the directors of a corporation hold a fiduciary to the stockholders, collectively and individually, and are intrusted with the management of the corporate property for the common benefit and advantage of each stockholder, and are precluded by their acceptance of the trust from doing any act or engaging in any transaction in which their private interests will conflict with their duty to the stockholders, and frommaking any use of their power or of the corporate property for their own advantage (93 Cal., 17.) And courts of equity will not permit directors in the exercise of their duties as directors to make a profit for themselves to the exclusion of the other stockholders (93 Cal., 29; 60 Cal., 140; 53 Cal., 466.) Nor does it matter that there are no written or formal bylaws. Their obligation does not rest on bylaws, but on the very nature of their relation to the stockholders as trustees.

The fact of the absence of bylaws does not in any manner affect the responsibilities of the incorporation.

Unless some other way is provided by the charter for making bylaws, the directors can now or in the future make bylaws at a regular meeting, and without private consultation with any stockholder, but not so as in any way to injure prior or vested rights; and such bylaws must be just, equal, and reasonable in all respects, or the courts will, on due application, interfere and set them aside. A court of equity will, at the instance of a stockholder, control a corporation or its officers and restrain them from doing acts even within the scope

west bim of his right to a safeguard of his interests or relieve the directors of any lisibility for future wrongful acts.

Mrs. C. writes: My mother, a resident of Illinois, now deceased, left to me in her will an undivided interest in a piece of land in Iowa, forbidding that it be sold until the third generation inherits it; but gave me the privilege of dividing it if it is so desired.

1. Is there not some way I may sell that land?

2. Do the laws of Illinois or Iowa govern it?

3. Can it be divided before the estate is settled?

1. The law does not permit such a restraint to be imposed on land, either by deed or by a will.

deed or by a will.

The law of Iowa controls lands in that State. But in this particular the

3. Partition can be made before the estate is settled; but subject to the claims of creditors of the estate.

A. S. X. writes: A buys a tract of land i nwater district-from B. B had sold the water shares when A bought it leaving the land without any water privileges. Then A puts down a steam pumping plant. The land is taxed much hisper-in water districts than adjoining land. Is A compelled to pay this extra tax and on his pumping plant besides. If not, what must he do to have his tax lowered?

Your only recourse is to present the facts to the Board of Equalization, which has full discretionary power.

Wherever, as in California, and most of the States, a real estate mortage conveys only a chattel interest in the land and the equity of redemption is the ownership of the fee, before foreclosure, the payment of the taxes devolves on the mortgager, the owner. The mortgage is not liable in any case for taxes due or to become due, although he may sometimes have to pay taxes in order to save his mortgage as against the public lien.

A. B. C. writes: If a married woman marries by representing herself as a widow and then deserts in a few days what evidence would be required to establish the first marriage, so as to have the second one set aside and made void? Would the second husband be liable for bigamy in marrying before having the former marriage set aside by a divorce? As I understand it, it is impossible for one married to marry again, so why is it necessary to have any legal proceedings?

It is the settled law in all the States that in a prosecution for bigamy the first marriage must be proved by record evidence. In such a case proof by repatation will not be sufficient.

The second husband would be liable if he knowingly joined in such marriage. The penalty is adjusted by statute. In California the punishment is a fire not less than $2000 or imprisonment in the State prison not less than three years. *****

E. F. G. writes: A wife procures a divorce from her husband on the double grounds of adultery and cruelty. Twenty years afterward the husband publishes a statement of the case, declaring the testimony was perjured; that witnesses were paid for false swearing, nothing proved; the charges greatly exaggerated, and also that they "agreed to get a divorce" and he promised not to contest, etc., each and every statement being utterly false. These utterances are not given over the man's signature, but couched in the language of a reporter. Can this man be sued by his former wife with hope of success for putting her in the light of swearing falsely; or can the paper publishing the article be prosecuted?

Under such circumstances there can be no question of the former husband's liability to an action for libel, or of the liability of the newspaper company.

stead a home when the deed is in her husband's name?

If your husband is dead one of his children can take out letters of administration but property in your own name cannot be subjected to such administration without suit to set aside conveyance to you. The homestead is for the benefit of the family, and if the husband does not claim its benefits the wife can do so even without his consent in the State of California.

REUNITED AFTER MANY YEARS Jailer Collins Receives a Visit from His Son.

There was an affecting reunion yes-terday between City Jailer John T. Collins and his son, Fred Collins, after Collins and his son, Fred Collins, after a separation lasting nearly twenty years. The boy's mother died at Cameron, Mo., when he was but sight weeks old. His mother's relatives took charge of hm, and became so attached to the baby that they could not bear to part with him when Mr. Collins started west two years later. Knowing that the child would be Knowing that the child would Knowing that the child would be well cared for by his grandparents Mr. Collins left him with them, and came west to take up'his permanent residence. That was the last time he saw his boy until yesterday, when the young man, now 20 years of age, called upon him in this city.

Mr. Collins had long been expecting a visit from his son, but the latter never reached the coast before a few days ago, when he passed through Los Angeles with the Phoenix. Ariz., baseball team, on the way to San Diego to play ball. Young Collins embraced the opportunity on the return trip to stop at Los Angeles to get acquainted with his father, of whom he had no recollection, except by hearsay and correspondence. Both were overjoyed at the meeting, and their only regret is the shortness of the visit, as Fred must return to Phoenix in a few days. He is employed there at the carpenter trade.

goes down to the seat of the disease, thus permanently eliminating trace of the taint.

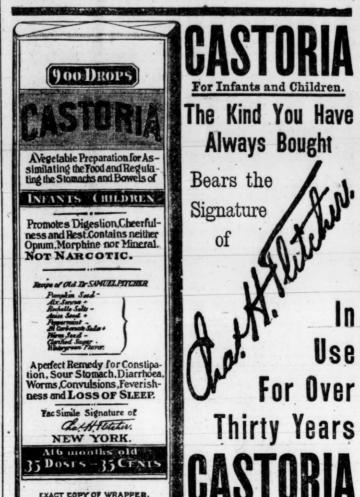

The serious consequences to which Scrofula surely leads should impress upon those afflicted with it the vital importance of wasting no time upon treatment which can not possibly effect a cure. In many cases where the wrong treatment has been relied upon, complicated glandular swellings have resulted, for which the doctors insist that a dangerous surgical operation is necessary.

Mr. H. E. Thompson, of Milledgeville, Ga., writes: "A bad case of Scrofula broke out on the glands of my neck, which had to be lanced and caused me much suffering. I was treated for a long while, but the physicians were unable to cure me, and my condition was as bad as when I began their treatment. Many blood remedies were used, but without effect. Some one recommended S. S. S., and I began to improve as soon as I had taken a few bottles. Continuing the remedy, I was soon cured permanently, and have never had a sign of the disease to return." Swift's Specific—

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

—is the only remedy which can promptly reach and cure obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases. By relying upon it, and not experimenting with the various so-called tonics, etc., all sufferers from blood troubles can be promptly cured, instead of enduring years of suffering which gradually but surely undermines the constitution. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, and never fails to cure Scrofula, Eczema, Cancer, Bheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, Boils, Tetter, Pimples, Sores, Ulcers, etc. Insist upon S. S.; nothing can take its place. Books on blood and skin diseases will be mailed free to any address by the Swift Specific Company. Atlanta, Georgie

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Monday, May 15, 1899.

MUNICIPAL BONDS. Prices for municipal bonds continue to soar to new high records on every sale of new issues. Prices now ruling for municipal bonds, especially city bonds of Massachusetts and Bloode Island, says the Boston News Bussau, are without precedent in the history of the bond market. City bonds, such as Boston, Worcester. New York City and Providence, are now selling at less than 3 per cent. income basis. The last sale of city bonds recorded is the issue of Providence 3 per cent. bonds at an income basis of 2.974 per cent.

The following table is compiled to show the appreciation in the price of bonds for the past twenty-eight years on a basis of net return to the investor:

(City of Providence bonds taken as an investor:

(City of Providence bonds taken as an in-stance.)

	Amount.	Interest, per cent.	Duration,	Price.	Inc. basis, per cent.
1899	$ 334,000		30	100.50	2.974
1898	200,000	316	30	107.61	3.11
1897	674,000	31/2	50	100	3.50
1896	500,000	4	30	113.69	3.28
1895	800,000	4	30	113.952	3.27
1894	1,200,000	4	30	111.119	3.40
1893	817,000	4	30	106.004	3.665
1892	1,000,000	4	30	108.289	3.55
1891	1,125,000		30	101.67	3.90
1880	146,000	5	20	100	5
1879	600,000	436	20	102.59	4.30
1876	1,500,000	5	30	106.11	4.625
1874	2,000,000	5	26	90	5.75
1872	1,180,000	5	28	93	5.50
1871	820,000	6	29	105.80	5.625

It will be noted that the net return from the bonds has decreased over ½ per cent. In the past two years, nearly 1 per cent. in eight years, 2 per cent. In the past nineteen years, cent. in twenty-five years.

COMMERCIAL.

TRUSTS DO NOT RUN IT ALL. It does not seem wise to take too much thought to heart about commercial com-binations. Few of these are stronger than the American Sugar Refining Company. And yet this has brought binations. Few of these are stronger than the American Sugar Refining Company. And yet this has brought into the field a competitor which is making much trouble. Two weeks ago the price of refined over raw sugar in New York was only 27 cents per 100 pounds. One large refiner says he has been losing $300 a day for six months. Had it not been that many refiners thad raw sugar bought on a low basis they cold not have kept their plants running. It is rumored that should the Arbuckles and Doscher make peace with the trust, there is ample capital organized in Baltimore to enter the field and keep up the fight. The sugar markets of the world are very strong, and raw is likely to cost more. Yet it is claimed that the American Refining Company will not dare to advance prices, because it would give the opposition more advantage than the trust could reap.

CARRYING DEAD GOODS. A great many merchants who do business in a small way never think what it costs them to carry unsalable goods, but continue year after year to regard the old stuff as valuable assets. C. H. Arnold in the New England Grocer works the problem out this way:

Few retail merchants realize the constantly increasing cost of portions of their stock, which is daily, monthly and yearly growing in amount, because original figures are adhered to for selling prices, regardless of the fact that original figures are adhered to for sell-ing prices, regardless of the fact that certain articles, by lack of popularity or because they have already had their day, are worth less than their first cost. The tenacity with which some merchants hang on to old goods year after year, inventorying them at the original cost, instead of present market value, is certinly worthy of a better cause.

value, is certinly worthy of a better cause.

An article costing originally $10, taking the value of money at ordinary interest rates, would stand at the end of the second year at about $11, at the end of the fifth year $13, and so on, each succeeding year piling up the cost, in that the money represented has not been earning an interest or a profit elsewhere, and therefore it would be charged to the goods. Meanwhile the goods are diminishing in value, compared with original figures, in a more rapid ratio than their cost is piling up. It the merchant had sacrificed the article the first year for $5, the loss on the transaction at the end of five years, using the same interest calculation as before, would amount to only $2.75; but the $5, turned over and over again, at the usual percentage of profit, would have earned much more than this. By comparison, the oft-quoted saying, "We got our money back, anyway," uttered by those who hold an article for several years and then sell it at its original cost, becomes extremely ridiculous years and then sell it at its original cost, becomes extremely ridiculous. Carrying a stock of dead and unsalable goods locks up so much capital in trade that the merchant often finds himself unable to take advantage of the many that the merchant often finds himself unable to take advantage of the usual cash discounts. This means that goods otherwise costing him $10, less 7 per cent. for quick money or per cent. for quick work or $9.30 net, will stand him $10 net. His reputation of being a close cash buyer is thus lost, and the consequence of a considerable amount of dead stock on the shelves is that the merchant is obliged to pay long prices for all of his goods.

Merchants who get into this position Merchants who get into this position are no longer sought after by wholesalers, when there are special bargains to be offered, for at such times only strict cash buyers are approached. This frequently means in a given community that the merchant's competitors can sell certain goods and make reasonable profits at prices that represent actual cost to him. Putting the kriffe into the prices of unsalable goods and getting rid of them, is the only way to conduct a successful business. The first loss on unsalable articles is always the smallest loss.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

DEPARTMENT STORES IN SMALL TOWNS. The department store is gen-erally considered possible only in large rowns. The department store is generally considered possible only in large cities. But Frank Terry conducts one successfully at Stoughton, Wis., a place of only 3000 inhabitants. Mr. Terry writes to the Grocery World about his business as follows:

"We looked the situation over very thoroughly before we decided to embark in the venture, and our most sanguine expectations have been realized. So far. We find that the principles and plans of the store have met with the complete approval of the public. We occupy a three-story brick, 90x100 feet. On the ground floor we have very large show windows on two sides of the building, giving us fine opportunities for window displays. The first floor is occupied by the dry goods, notions, sho and hardware lines. We have a very nice, light basement, in which we have the grocery department and reserve stock. On the second floor the stock consists of carpets, wallpaper, crockery and millinery. We have now added a merchant tailoring department. We have elevator service and expect soon to add a complete line of furniture on the third floor."

Former Santa Barbaran the Mayor Pro Tem of Chattanooga. In its account of the meeting of the National Association of Chiefs of Police the Chattanooga News gives the fol-lowing sketch of Capt. W. S. Seavey, who was City Marshal at Santa Barbara more than twenty years ago:

"Among the striking figures attending th convention is Capt. W. S. Seavey, the traveling agent of Thiel's Protectiv the traveling agent of Thiel's Protective Service Company. Big in frame as well as heart, he is a perfect type of the man who works for his 'own hand,' and loves excitement and adventure simply because he does.

"Capt. Seavey was born in Maine in 1842, and 1861 found him in Denver, busily engaged in mining. During the war he served as captain and after that took a turn as clerk on a Mississippi steamboat. Of that occupation he soon tired, and went to Omaha, where he was chief clerk of the House of Representatives in 1868, filling the place until 1873, when he went to California as a farmer. After a term as City Marshal of Santa Barbara, he drifted to South America, and from there to Honolulu, and after a successful trading venture to Australia, he spent several years in the South Sea islands trading and exploring.

"Longing for home, he returned to "Longing for home, he returned to Omaha, and was elected Chief of Police in 1887, serving in that capacity until 1893; 1895 saw him again a miner in Colorado, and in 1897 he quit that occupation and accepted his present place. Capt. Seavey now has all the excite-ment that his nature craves. His speclalty is detective service on the ranges of the west, and with his corps of trained men he has been instrumental in running down some of the boldest thieves in California. Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. While making en-emies, however, he has made numerous friends who enjoy the time he spends with them at all the big cattle conven-toins."

The News also notes the following incident in the proceedings:
"Upon motion, ex-Chief of Police Seavey of Omaha, aws appointed Mayor of Chattanooga, pursuant to the proposition of Mayor Watkins, during the convention. A committee escorted Mayor Seavey to the platform, and he was received with applause. He delared it was the easiest campaign he had ever had, and that the doors of the the received the delared to the dela city were open to the delegates.

"How about the 10 o'clock law?
asked some one from the audience
"can't you make it 10:30?"
"This and other questions put to the that grand medicine called Acker's English Remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles. It saves children every time when they are attacked by croup.

Every mother should know about it, and I will tell about my experience. I had a darling boy of four years to die with croup. My doctor did all he could, but the child could not be made to vomit. That was before I knew of Acker's Engish Remedy. After I did hear of it. I got a bottle. When our little eighteen-months-old girl was stricken with croup, I gave her this medicine, and inside of twenty _ minutes she vomited and was better right away. During the winit brought her through each time all right. I. myself, had bronchitis pretty bad, and Acker's English Remedy cured me completely. Before I close, I want to tell you of my neighbor's boy, named Jobe Nana. He had bronchitis, too. He got worse all the time. My husband went over to his house and told him about my case. Then his mother went to town, got a 50-cent bottle of Acker's English Remedy, and he took it. He came over to our house a few days later and said he was all right, and also said two doses relieved him from the start. You can un derstand by my letter why I think so much of Acker's English Remedy. I repeat that God's blessing must surely have been bestowed upon Dr. Acker."

the Next Caravansery—Rumors as to Disposition of Prof. Lowe's House—Water Main Broken.

PASADENA, May 15.—[Regular Correspondence.] Since the courts decided that C. G. Emery may take immediate possession of Prof. Lowe's mansion, under mortgage, it has been rumored that Mr. Emery would construct a big hotel on the place; but tonight a gentleman who is in a position to know stated that this rumor is obsolete. Mr. Emery broached such a project to Gen. Wentworth before the latter left the city this spring, and it went so far that architects plans were examined. Mr. Emery has decided, however, that one hotel enterprise at a time will do for him. He is now overseing the final touches on his big 800-room hostelry on the St. Lawrence River, one of the largest resort hotels on the continent, which will be opened in June. If this proves the success that he anticipates, he will next turn his attention to a similar undertaking in Pasadena. Mr. Emery is the treasurer of the Tobacco Trust, and enormously wealthy. He has big interests in Southern California, and his business ambition is boundless. It is probled that he will be at the head of He has big interests in Southern California, and his business ambition is boundless. It is probable that he will be at the head of the next great hotel enterprise here, and when the structure looms up it will be the biggest thing in Pasadena. Parties are negotiating for the purchase of the Lowe place, and this will not be the site of a hotel, in all probability.

Gentlemen at La Pintoresca this winter made up a pool of $100,000 one evening and started thus a syndicate to buy Raymond Hill and put a hotel on the old location.
They were millionaires, and the proposition They were millionaires, and the proposition did not look big to them. A telegram was sent to Walter Raymond asking for his lowest spot cash price for the hill, and he replied "$200,000." This out an end to the negotiations, as he declared he would not budge from that figure.

The Better Roads Society is keeping up its campaign and has appointed J. M. Sickler its soliciting agent. President Datus C. Smith was asked tonight what position he took with regard to the movement to have the city streets sprinkled with crude oil. He said nine-tenths of the society would be opposed to such a scheme, and he could hardly believe it would be entertained seriously. "It is a lazy man's substitute for good roads," said Mr. Smith. "Crude oil unquestionably gives some cohesion to the surface sail of poor roads, and may be used with advantage in a farming community. If there is some question as to whether the oil actually in urse the varnish of a carriage or the rubber tires of hicycles, as is claimed, there is no doubt at all as to the disagreeable odor constantly arising from roads treated in this way. This objection should settle the case for Pasadena. It seems to me that it is a criticism upon the condition of the roads in Pasadena when it is proposed to smear them with crude oil to lay the dust."

Since the Marshal escorted her to her house the second time, and told her she must remain there, Mrs. Sykes has been very obedient. The neighbors say she has not gone cut, and has asked them to attend to her downtown business for her. So thoroughly impressed was she with the Marshal's admonition to be a home body that a ticket agent with whom she has been negotiating for a passage to Europe came to the Marshal today and asked if she might go. The officer told him that there were no restrictions on her travels, and he booked her for the passage.

Arrival of the Belgian King from the Orient.

SAN DIEGO, May 15.— [Regular Correspondence.] The event of the past two or three days was the arrival last night at 30 clock of the big steemer Belgian King of the California and Oriental line, which is the first vessel of the line to make the round trip to the Orient from this port. Capt. Welss brings the steamer around by way of San Francisco, where about two thousand tons of freight consigned to merchants in that city was discharged. Leaving that port Friday night at 10 o'clock, the Belgian King arrived off the bar of San Diego at 7 o'clock last night, where she was boarded by Pilot Keith. Only a few persons were on the wharf when the steamer finally reached her berth, and these were principally custom-house officers. When the Belgian King failed to put in an appearance outside early last evening, it was generally thought that she would not come in until this morning, consequently there was no crowd down to the water front to welcome the steamer.

The steamer brings to this port 1300 tons of freight, consisting of matting destined for New York and New Orleans, sugar, rice, tea, curios, and the large assortment of miscellars of the condition of the tide and darkness made it extremely difficult to make the landing without some risk. It was not so bad an accident as happened to the wharf in broad daylight a few weeks zego, when the steamer Santa Rosa tried to take away one corner of the California and Oriental wharf, and entailed an expense to her owners of about $150.

At 3 o'clock an alarm was turned in from box 43. The department responded promptly. The house was a considerable distance from a hydrant, and before the hose was coupled to together the chemical apparatus and garden to hose had the fire under control. The house is a small one, and the contents were practically destroyed. The fire started in a gasoline stove. Miss McCollum was filing the stove in the kitchen, near where a wood atove was burning briskly. Some of the gasoline was spilled or the fumes caught fire, and in a moment the girl found herself enveloped in flames. Fourth of July Celebration — Fog Saved the Cubbage.

FULLERTON, May 15. — [Regular Correspondence.] A meeting will be held Wednesday night to discuss and prepare for a big Fourth of July celebration. Fullerton has always had great success with her celebrations, and this year will put forth an extra effort. It is the first town in the county to announce a celebration of the great day, and will probably have a clear field.

Cabbage-growers are finishing their season under much better circumstances than they had reason a few weeks ago to consider possible. Heavy fogs nightly for some time past have practically made the cabbage. Growers are realizing $35 per ton. They will all make big money.

More than fifty men are now employed in the Santa Fé oil field by that company and others operating there. It is expected that within the next four months this number will be doubled. On the Olinda ranch preparations are making for immediate and extensive development. In the new Yorba field, which adds another link to the horseshoe chain from Whittier to the ocean at Newport Beach, the outlook is exceedingly promising, and rapid development is confidently expected. Hall well No. 1, east of the Santa Fé field, is pumping ten barrels a day, the strike having been made last week at 1000 fect. Preparations for well No. 2 are being made by this company. The Leftus Company is meeting with much more encouragement than promised in the beginning. Well No. 1 is pumping strong, and at 1400 feet there are excellent prospects for a big strike of light oil in No. 2. The company's No. 3 well is dewn 500 feet and making a good showing. All other companies in the field are making progress.

I will endeavor, and I think I could get my co-associates to pay something toward the accomplishment of this end, but I would like to know just what it would cost to get the free right-of-way, so that we could cover the gap with workmen. I have given orders to the contractors not to put on any greater force until the matter is settled, and of course we shall give a reasonable time for this right-of-way business to be cleaned up. It is quite true that we did not agree to build the road until all rights-of-way had been furnished, and we are, therefore, in a sense or tecnnically blameless, having come what we agreed to do. At the same time, I do not feel satisfied with what we have done, thinking that we have come a little short ourselves of doing the best we knew toward building this road; and so I shall speak with my people and get them, if I can, to agree to pay a part of the expense of cleaning up these rights-of-way; only we must know just what the expense will be, and know as soon as the information can be given us. We cannot afford to push the work ahead until the question of rights-of-way is entirely cleared up and closed. I hope it will be done promptly."

EPWORTH LEAGUE ANNIVERSARY.

Yesterday at the First Methodist Church the services, both morning and evening, were in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Epworth League. In the morning Rev. L. M. Hartley, pastor of the church, delivered a discourse upon the league, giving a history of the organization. In the evening the service at the church was in charge of the service at the church was in charge of the league, and consisted of songs and papers by the members of the league and devotional exercises. Miss Enton spoke of "The Epworth" of the League, "and the league of the Maxims of the League." Both morning and evening services were largely attended.

Yesterday morning the First Baptist Church, erected over two years ago, was dedicated, the indebtedness hanging over it since its completion having been cancelled. The dedicatory sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. W. F. Harper, and a good musical programme was carried out.

WATER DEVELOPMENT.

through whom water is secured in Redlands for irrication purposes, was suspended yesterday and may not be resumed. After weeks of work the directors have succeeded in getting one shaft into hardpan, but that is about all that they did get in it; one was in the gravel and a few inches of water could be pumped from it. Some of the stockholders have protested vigorously against further expenditure of money there, as borrowing is necessary for every expenditure. A meeting will be held soon to decide the course to be pursued. will be field soon to declare the coales to water pursued.

In Mill Creek Cañon the Crafton Water Company has a shaft about fifty feet deep from which about twenty-five inches of water are being pumped. The shaft will be pushed down to bedrock if it can be pushed through the boulders, in the hope of getting enough water to pay for pumping.

The proposition now looked upon apparently with greatest favor is that of the Palm Valley Water Company, to bring from the south fork of the Whitewater River 300 inches of water. This they will sell, guaranteed

In the Yucaipe, the Biggin well, from which so much was expected, caved in three weeks ago. It has been cleaned out, and drifting is under way to increase the water. About thirty inches can be pumped from it now. A. Gregory is sinking a well on the Williams tract, and J. S. Haie has one going down in Lugonia. W. A. Nichols has one down on the Barton ranch, and D. H. Gillan is about to put in the pump in his well near the Barton Villa. S. J. Hayes is putting in a pump at a well just sunk on Fern avenue, and contracts have been let for a number of others.

Fowler's Domestic Discord.

E. L. Fowler, who is alleged to have choked his wife and threatened to cut her throat at the couple's home at No. 113 Geary street, Sunday evening, was on trial for battery before Justice Moron trial for battery before Justice Morgan yesterday afternoon. He pleaded not guilty and endeavored by expatiating upon the shortcomings of his better half to show that he was a very indulgent and long-suffering husband. He denied having used force and violence upon her person, although admitting that there had been some trouble. Mrs. Fowler submitted in evidence a large butcher-knife, and a calico wrapper as full of cuts and slashes as Caesar's mantle after Brutus and his gang had done him to death with their daggers. The cents in the wrapper were alleged to have been made by Fowler while endeavoring to carve Mrs. Fowler. The wife testified that her husband was only abusive when drunk. At the close of the hearing, Justice Morgan took the case under advisement. Before being returned to the City Jail, Fowler begged for a loan of $2.50 from his spouse and got it.

CASKET-LOWERING DEVICE.

Automatic Machine for Depositing Bodies in the Grave—Prectical Test at Rosedale.

The firm of Peck & Chase Company, the Hill-street undertakers and embalmers, of this city, are just now introducing a novel machine called the safety casket-lowering dethis city, are just now introducing a novel machine called the safety casket-lowering device, by means of which the cid style of letting down the casket of coffin containing the body for interment by straps or ropes in the hands of the pallbearers is done away with entirely. It consists of a trap-like framework placed over the grave, on which rests the casket. This is so constructed with cables, springs and automatic mechanism that the operator, by simply releasing a spring, can lower the body at any rate of speed desired, which is regulated by means of a sacred brake.

When the casket reaches the bottom the cable is automatically released by a self-adjusting arrangement, and is returned ready for use again. The cable is capable of sustaining a weight of 1500 pounds, hence an accident by breaking is practically impossible.

A practical test of this, the first machine of its kind ever brought to this city, was made on Monday of this week at the grave of William H. Rounsefell, at Rosedale Cemetery, which proved entirely satisfactory in results.

tery, which proved entirely satisfactory in results.

With its noiseless operation and rapid manipulation it seems not unreasonable to predict its general use when once introduced, and its merits fully understood.

Those who may be interested can obtain all desired information by addressing the Peck & Chase Company, Undertakers and Embalmers, Masonic Temple, Fourth and Hill streets, Los Angeles, who are the sole agents.
